HEARING ON INCOME TAX AMENDMENT IS STARTED IN BOSTON

Committee on Federal Relations Opens Session With Eleven Persons Ready to Speak on Subject.

MR. WATSON TALKS

Cites Time When Country Imposed Such a Duty, Objects to Ruling and Leaves Forum to Others.

The income tax amendment to the constitution of the United States came up for discussion before the committee on federal relations at the State House today.

When the committee opened its session 11 citizens were present to express opinions on the state's action regarding the proposed change in the fundamental law of the nation.

James A. Watson, the first speaker, said that he had heard that the hearing had not properly been advertised, but he didn't believe it; that certain newspapers have insinuated that the matter was to be stopped by the committee, but he didn't believe that either. He referred to 1900 and 1901, when he was a member of the Legislature, which was considering the lease of the Boston & Albany railroad to the New York Central.

Chairman Farley hinted that his committee is one on federal relations and that it has nothing to do with railroad questions. Mr. Watson expressed his indignation that the committee should expect him to confine himself to the question under discussion, and likening the attitude of Chairman Farley to that of Speaker Cannon in its "absolute arrogance," he departed with a final goodby.

Mr. Watson earlier told the committee that the income tax was first imposed in England in 1799. The first use in this country was in 1861, when a tax of 3 per cent was imposed on all incomes over $800. Citizens of the United States living abroad were taxed 7½ per cent. In 1865 the tax was practically doubled and in 1870 it was abolished, having yielded a revenue of nearly $365,000,000 in the 10 years during which it was enforced.

E. Gerry Brown of Brockton considered this question one of the most important that will come before the Legislature this session. He believed that there is no question of the constitutionality of such a measure even under the present constitution, as shown by the fact that it was once before imposed and continued in force for 10 years. The one vote of Massachusetts may be enough to bring the tax about, said Mr. Brown, and Massachusetts should stand shoulder to shoulder with Virginia in this question as it did in the revolutionary days, rather than with the little state of Rhode Island. It should be settled on the question of citizenship, not of partizan politics.

It has never been the policy of the government or the state to tax small incomes; that they have been exempted on the theory that a man of small income was doing his full duty in providing for and educating his family. The theory is that a man should be taxed in proportion to his ability to bear taxation and the swollen fortunes of today should bear their just proportion of the tax. They must be leveled by the process of taxation or they will be by the more rapid process of an uprising of the people.

We are in worse condition today, he said, than were those countries which have risen in revolution. The only saving feature is found in bountiful crops which have given the people a chance to grasp at prosperity; you only await the failure of the crops to invite the deluge.

It is generally believed that the House is in favor of the amendment and that the Senate opposes it. This means that the vote of Massachusetts will be against the amendment, unless something arises to change the situation. The question has not aroused much enthusiasm in the state, and was scarcely mentioned in the fall campaign although it was a plank of one party's platform.

James H. Vahey and Eugene N. Foss, who will again in all probability be the leaders of the Democratic ticket this fall, have signified their intention of appearing before the committee in favor of the proposed amendment.

The attitude of Massachusetts on the question is likely to be known by the last of February. It would then be the first northern state to go on record. Rhode Island will be close behind Massachusetts and may even get ahead of her. Vermont cannot act before next fall, and Maine, New Hampshire and Connecticut will have no opportunity on the question before 1911.

After the committee has heard as many citizens as care to speak on the question, it will report for or against it and the matter will go before the Legislature for a vote. The vote of the Legislature settles the question for Massachusetts, as the resolution does not require executive approval.

LEADS GREYTOWN EXPEDITION TODAY

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua—General Estrada has learned that 700 of the Madriz troops are entrenching north of Greytown. With General Matuty he is arranging an expedition, and it is expected that the two generals, with 500 men, will leave here today on the steamers Senator and Blanca. General Estrada will direct the troops.

General Estrada has been waiting for an opportunity to engage the Madriz forces at Greytown, but they have remained in the city, practically under the protection of Great Britain, which forbade fighting within city limits, where property is largely owned by British subjects.

TURN A BALANCE INTO TREASURY

For the first time in more than a score of years, the several departments of the city of Malden have not exceeded the appropriation made at the beginning of the year and have turned back into the city treasury substantial balances.

The report of the city auditor, completed and reported to the mayor today, shows a fund from unexpended balances of 1909 amounting to $13,703.04.

All bills against the departments have been paid, although city expenditures the past year for current expenses exceeded those of any previous year, but the tax rate, owing to the discovery of large amounts of taxable property, was the lowest in 25 years.

FISH ARE SELLING FOR NEARLY DOUBLE SATURDAY'S PRICES

Dealers Eagerly Bid in Fares Offered at T Wharf Where Receipts Are Exceptionally Light.

ARRIVALS ARE FEW

People interested in the success of the meat boycott will notice one effect of it if they glance over the fish market prices today. Fish quotations steadily rise, as can be seen by comparing Saturday's figures with today's prices for T wharf commodities.

An advance of from $2 to $2.15 for large cod in T wharf dealers' prices today is shown over that of Saturday. Today they are selling ex-vessel at $5.76; Saturday at $3.60@3.75. A corresponding increase is seen in the price of haddock, which sold to dealers Saturday at $2.75. Today it has gone up to $3.75 and $4.25.

Small cod has almost doubled in price since Saturday. It sold then at $1.75; today at $3.75. Even the humble pollock has risen from $2.25@2.75 to $3.25@3.75 over Sunday.

This outlook has, however, an encouraging side, as the advance in prices is said to be principally due to the small supply of fish on hand, owing to severe conditions which has hampered the fishermen.

Only four vessels were on hand at the opening of the fish mart this morning, and none of them had large fares. As a consequence, bidding at the New England Fish Exchange was extremely spirited, many dealers being unable to get fish at any price.

An unusually large fleet of vessels is now on the fishing grounds, and a day or two of good fishing conditions will bring them in. Until then, however, the price of fish will, no doubt, cause the beef barons to rejoice.

The schooners Teaser, Capt. Peter Dunsky, came in today with a good fare of halibut; 20,600 pounds in all. The schooner also had 10,000 pounds of hake and 3000 pounds of salt cod. The hake sold at $4.75 for large and $2.25 for small. Captain Dunsky said he was fishing on a phenomenally fine halibut ground, but parted his cable and thus was unable to hold the spot.

Other arrivals today were the Mary B. Greer, Washakie and Massasoit, bringing a total catch of only 29,500 pounds of mixed fish.

POSTAL BANK BILL LAUDED BY SENATOR CARTER IS OFFERED

WASHINGTON—The United States is the only first-class power in the world to deny to the people the privileges and the blessings enjoyed by a postal savings bank, declared Senator Carter of Montana, speaking today in the Senate on the bill to establish postal savings banks, favorably reported from the committee on postoffices and post roads.

He spoke of the promises made in the last Republican platform, as well as in several other party platforms, of the support given to the measure by former President Roosevelt and by President Taft as also by a number of the postmaster-generals of the past 40 years, and outlined the present bill.

Answering numerous objections which have been made against postal savings banks, Senator Carter asserted that they would not be a menace to the present banking system of the country; that the commercial banks, even if they were sufficiently numerous, could not reach the people in the rural and sparsely inhabited districts whom the postal banks are designed to benefit. The postal depositaries, he declared, would encourage thrift, would bring into circulation much money now kept in hiding and would impel foreigners who now send much of their savings home for deposit in savings banks in their own countries to place it in the care of this government.

In referring to the countries which already have such a system, the speaker said that "it is operated in countries of limited extent and those of broad territorial expanse with equal facility, success and satisfaction."

MR. GUILD SCORES SPEAKER CANNON

DETROIT, Mich.—Making a plea for the forests of New England before the Detroit Sons of the American revolution, former Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., of Massachusetts scored Speaker Cannon as the greatest obstruction to the conservation of the woodlands of the country.

Mr. Guild, who is president of the National Forestry Association, declared that Speaker Cannon is "the one great force that has done more than any other to blight the efforts of forestry."

BOSTON FLOOD FUND IS INCREASED TODAY BY LARGE DONATIONS

Over $18,000 Subscribed at Noon — Hope Expressed That Double Amount of First Cable Be Secured.

SEINE STILL LOWER

Hope is expressed today that the contribution of Massachusetts and Boston to the flood fund for the relief of Paris will soon be $100,000—double the amount that was cabled to the French government on Saturday by Henry L. Higginson, treasurer of the fund.

Mr. Higginson reports popular subscriptions received up to noon today as amounting to $18,400.

Several liberal donations have been received and by this evening the committee expects to be able to report a much larger fund in the hands of the treasurer. Cable despatches expressing the gratitude of the French people have been received by the Boston Chamber of Commerce and by Gov. Eben S. Draper. One is from the French secretary of state's office and the other from United States Ambassador Bacon in Paris.

Bostonians in Paris, led by Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, are reported to be among the most active in assisting in flood relief in that city.

Edmund Billings, secretary of the committee of 15 appointed as a result of Saturday's meeting at the State House called by Governor Draper, this noon said that nothing had been done by the committee so far but to issue the appeal for contributions, which are being received by Lee, Higginson & Co., State

MR. GLAVIS TO FACE CROSS-EXAMINATION OF MEN HE ACCUSES

WASHINGTON—Interest today at the resumption this afternoon of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy investigation centers on the appearance of Louis R. Glavis, the chief accuser of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger for cross-examination.

Any and all persons against whom he has in any way made charges will be given an opportunity to question him and it is expected that Representatives McLachlan of California and Kinkaid of Nebraska, who were interested in certain Alaskan coal claims, according to Mr. Glavis, either personally or through their friends, will endeavor to free themselves from all taint of suspicion.

Mr. Glavis declared Saturday that after being commissioner of the land office, Mr. Ballinger acted as attorney for Representative Kincaid. In regard to Mr. McLachlan, he testified that Mr. Ballinger recommended to him that the investigation against the California congressman be not pushed, because there had been "too much of that sort of thing in the past."

The presence in Washington of former District Attorney Jerome of New York started a rumor that he had been selected as attorney for Secretary Ballinger. This was denied, however, on behalf of Secretary Ballinger.

When the committee meets today the secretary will not be represented by any attorney. The impression is given out, however, that he will soon have a lawyer present at the hearings to protect his interests.

ROAD IS OPPOSED IN WEST ROXBURY

Several residents of the West Roxbury section of Boston were before the board of railroad commissioners today to express their views with respect to the plans of the Boston & Providence Interurban Electric Railroad Company for its proposed electric railroad to connect Boston and Providence.

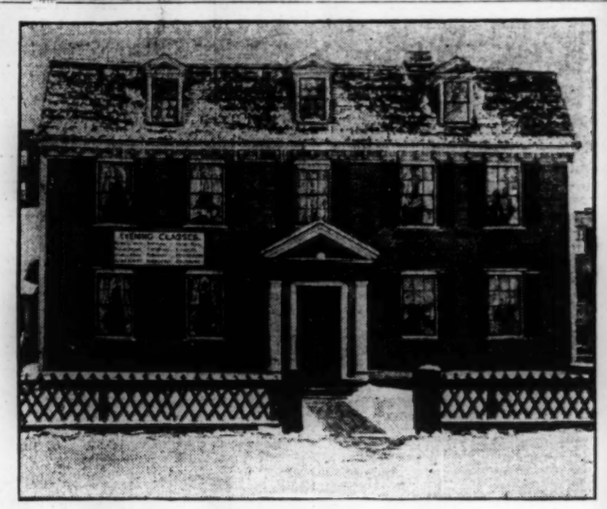

The company has filed a plan which provides that the line shall go through West Roxbury and Hyde Park on the westerly side of the existing location of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, but the people of Hyde Park strenuously object to this location on the ground that it would cause great injury to property in the "Sunnyside" or residential section of that town. They have proposed an alternate route on the easterly side of the New Haven tracks, which would force the road through Hyde Park avenue, in West Roxbury.

To this location the people of West Roxbury object. As their spokesman, George Cherry, a real estate agent of West Roxbury, told the commission this morning the route would mean damages amounting to $636,000, as it would permanently injure 105 residences and 230 building lots.

Others who expressed similar views were Representative John J. Conway of ward 23, James Sullivan, Jean P. Nickerson, John E. Kelly, Philip Sodan and Charles J. Lennen, all of West Roxbury. The hearing was continued.

Social Union Does Much Good

Cambridge institution is great educational force.

CAMBRIDGE SOCIAL UNION.

Building stands on Brattle street next to Brattle hall and a short distance up the fashionable residence street from Harvard square.

The Cambridge Social Union, through its evening classes, its free circulating library of over 7000 volumes and a well-equipped periodical room, is a great educational force in the city of Cambridge.

It furnishes athletic facilities to its junior members in its new game room. One of the most popular features of the Union is a dancing class for adults.

The membership of the Social Union is about 550. Any person can become a member for a fee of $1 a year. Junior membership for those under 16 is 50 cents. This nominal sum gives all the privileges of the library, reading room and entertainments.

The popularity of the institution is evidenced by the fact that members come not only from Cambridge but Somerville, Medford, Arlington and even more distant suburbs.

The distinctive feature of the union's work is the evening educational classes. These classes are conducted almost wholly by students in Harvard University. The Social Union is located next to Brattle hall, not five minutes' walk from the college yard.

Instruction is furnished by the students without charge, in many instances the teachers sacrificing much-needed time to engage in this work. The classes meet once each week from October until May. The largest classes are the immediately practical ones, such as shorthand, typewriting, photography, elementary and advanced mathematics, reading and spelling and book-keeping.

Courses are offered in modern languages, Greek and Latin, European and American history, economics and civics, mathematics ranging from elementary arithmetic to trigonometry, physics, chemistry, fine arts and music. Special classes are given in dressmaking, millinery and dancing.

CLINTON FACING BUSINESS BOOM

CLINTON, Mass.—There is a boom coming for Clinton this year. The Lancaster mills is to build a mill, the Bigelow Carpet Company is to start machinery in the mill erected last summer, and the Wheelock Fence Company is installing machinery in the mill just completed on Flagg street, and is planning to erect an addition to the plant this year. These additions cannot be supplied with help in Clinton and people will have to be brought here for employment.

TRIAL OF NAVAL OFFICERS TODAY

Paymaster George P. Auld and Passed Assistant Surgeon Aussey H. Robnett, appeared at 10 a. m. today before a court martial at the Charlestown navy yard on charges growing out of an alleged affront to Dr. Edward S. Cowles of Boston at a navy dance Dec. 11 of last year.

Both men have been reprimanded by the secretary of the navy and the defense will argue that this precludes all possibility of further trial.

It was reported today that a meeting of the depositors of the bank had been called for tomorrow night, to engage counsel to guard their interests.

Robert Campbell, the expert who has been examining Hall's accounts as town treasurer, said today: "I shall be unable to make a report for a week at least."

A special meeting of the board of selectmen has been called for tomorrow. Two notes for $21,000 figure in the larceny charge against Hall. A dispute as to whether the town or the bank shall pay these notes has arisen.

CITY'S ELECTION COMMISSION PREPARES JURY ELIGIBLE LIST

The election commissioners today are preparing a list of 2000 names of voters of the city of Boston who are eligible for jury duty. These names are to make up the list from which the talesmen for jury service are to be drawn by the city council.

According to the statutes of Massachusetts there is required to be on file constantly a list of 6000 names of possible jurymen. Up to the present time jury drawings have depleted the present list to the extent of about 1800, and by the time the next drawing has taken place it is calculated that 200 more will have been exhausted. The next drawing of jurymen will be conducted by the new city council, which is to be inducted into office next Monday.

After the names are checked off for the list of 2000, they will be looked up by the police, in order to ascertain that all are actually available for duty.

Among those who are not eligible for jury duty on account of their vocations are doctors, clergymen, lawyers, policemen, firemen, engineers and conductors of steam railroads, members of the state militia, members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, teachers in the public schools, and officers and professors in all colleges.

JOINT COMMISSIONS URGE ROADS REPORT ON ELECTRIFICATION

Transit, Railroad, Harbor and Land and Park Boards Demand Immediate Action on the Matter.

GO INTO REASONS

Decide That Companies Should Study Problem and Submit Result by September of This Year.

The Boston transit railroad, harbor and land and metropolitan park commissions were heard upon their joint report on improvements of the metropolitan district, by the committee on metropolitan affairs at the State House today.

Chairman George G. Crocker, who opened the hearing, stated that the four important features of this report, which is a report in part, are the recommendations of the joint board as to electrification of the railroads which cater to the metropolitan district; the right of taking land by eminent domain for the construction of a great trunk highway across the city from Atlantic avenue, east, to Causeway street, west; the wharves and docks of East and South Boston, and finally the construction of a section of traffic road from the Lynnway to Revere street in Revere to connect with the wharves and docks of East Boston to bring to them the teaming from the north.

Mr. Crocker said that the question of electrification resolves itself simply to an instruction of the railroads operating in the metropolitan district to pursue with vigor the study of the problem of electrifying their systems and to make a report to the joint board by Sept. 1, 1910.

"I understand," he said, "that there is no opposition on the part of the railroads to making this study. They have all received due notice. There is no question that the electrification of our railroad service would very largely contribute to the comfort of our citizens, whether passengers or the general public, now inconvenienced by noise, smoke and soot. There is no question that the problem of electrification is an exceedingly difficult one and has not been fully developed at the present time. No uniform method has yet been determined upon.

In New York the New York Central road is operating by one method, the New Haven Company by another. It is of the first importance that a uniform system be adopted throughout not only this district but the United States.

Mr. Crocker cited the expenditure of $80,000,000 for the installation of the uniform freight car coupler throughout the country by all the railroads and the standard gauge as examples of what these great uniform methods cost. While electrification, he said, of our railroads is a matter of the greatest importance on one hand, on the other hand it is a matter exceedingly difficult of correct solution and the railroad companies ought to be given full time to study.

"But the importance is such," continued Mr. Crocker, "that they should not be allowed to lag and therefore our joint board recommends the passage of the resolve which we submit that the railroad companies report to our board the result of their studies by Sept. 1 of the current year."

Mr. Crocker said that a great many of the improvements that have been recommended for the metropolitan district depend upon whether the railroads are electrified or not.

Senator Crosby asked if there was any greater difficulty in electrifying railroads in the metropolitan district than there was in New York city?

Chairman Crocker—"Yes. In New York trains come in on one line on the New York Central; on one line on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, but in Boston the railroad service is like the spokes of a wheel, so that it is not alone on one line, but it is a matter of a number of lines on the north and still another number of lines on the south. While that is an expense they do not have in New York, we have some advantages that do not exist in New York, since it is possible here, by a tunnel, to connect traffic from the south under the city with traffic with suburban towns on the north of Boston. That is a matter of great economy in the handling of the great terminal stations.

It is estimated that it costs $600,000 a year just for the shifting of trains at each of our great terminals. If you may take passengers on the train at Braintree, continue on through the South station, depositing your passengers there, then on through the tunnel to the North station, depositing passengers there, and so on to Everett or Malden, carrying passengers there, then there is great economy obtained by continuous use of the equipment.

Senator Crosby—Then you think that the problem of connecting the North and South stations by a subway has a very material bearing on the expense of electrification?

Mr. Crocker—Yes, sir; I do. The saving would be much greater by a tunnel.

Turkish Council Now Considering Frontier Question

(Special to The Monitor.)

CONSTANTINOPLE — The Turkish council of ministers is now considering the question of the Franco-Turkish frontier between Tunis and Tripoli, and both the French and Turkish governments being sincerely desirous of arriving at a settlement, it is expected that a complete understanding will shortly be reached. The Turkish newspapers in discussing the incident have shown no antagonism toward France and have generally acknowledged the necessity of delimiting the boundary between Tunis and Tripoli so as to avoid such regrettable encounters in the future.

The question at issue between France and Turkey is the result of a misunderstanding as to the suzerainty of the zone or territory between Tunis and Tripoli which remained unoccupied when the French established a protectorate over Tunis in 1884.

The French line of occupation originally stopped at Ouled Fessi, but M. Paul Cambon, during his term of office as resident-general, discovered that the traditional demarcation beyond Tunis and Tripoli lay 40 kilometers beyond this point, and the line was accordingly extended. In 1886 M. Cambon formally took possession of the Ouled Mokta region and invested the local chieftains with the customary burnous. A flourishing settlement has sprung up at Ben Gardam, on the coast, and French influence has been extended southward by means of a line of police posts as far as Djenaien, half way to Ghadames.

The Turks have, as far as possible, followed the French example, with the result that the occurrence of border raids frequently brings not only the natives of Tunis and Tripoli, but also the French and Turkish police troops into conflict. These conflicts are peculiarly fruitful of difficulties, not only because the frontier has never been delimited, but also because the Turks claim jurisdiction over Tunisian subjects in Ottoman territory. In Tripoli, for example, notwithstanding the stipulations of the Bardo treaty, Tunisian residents or travelers are at the mercy of the Vali, who is usually indisposed to admit the right of the French consul to protect their interests.

PARIS — From a statement recently made by M. Pichon, minister of foreign affairs, at a meeting of the council of ministers, there is reason to believe that a speedy and satisfactory settlement of matters connected with the recent Franko-Turkish frontier will be arrived at.

FRANCE TO ADOPT DECENTRALIZATION POLICY IN AFRICA

(Special to The Monitor.)

PARIS—In further development of a policy of decentralization which has already been successfully proved in the cases of Indo-China, Madagascar and French West Africa, the minister for the colonies has submitted to the President of the Republic four decrees dealing with the administrative reorganization of the territories known as "French Kongoland" and its dependencies. The authority of the governor-general of French Kongoland, who in future will be styled governor-general of French Equatorial Africa, will extend to the three colonies of the Gaboon, the middle Kongo and the Ubangi-Shari, together with the military territory of Lake Chad. Under the new scheme the administrative and other powers of the governor-general over these territories as a whole and the functions of the government council are defined in detail.

BAR AND PRESS OF FRANCE WELCOME REFORM MEASURE

(Special to The Monitor.)

PARIS—The new government bill for the reform of French judicial procedure has been welcomed by the bar and the press only as an earnest of a more comprehensive measure, and consequently it has been subject to more or less friendly and helpful criticism. Ultra conservative opinion, not very widely shared, contends that the essential modification of the powers of the judge, which is contemplated in the bill, is calculated to diminish the status of the bench. On the other hand the abolition of the cross-examination by the presiding judge is popularly regarded with a feeling of genuine relief.

Doubts are expressed regarding the advisability of substituting an oral statement by the public prosecutor for the reading of the formal indictment which will in future be represented by the committal order of the examining magistrate. It has even been proposed that the present scheme of reform might be supplemented by provisions conferring upon the jury a voice in determining the amount of the penalty to be imposed.

PRESENT SESSION PROMISES TO BE MOST IMPORTANT ONE

(Special to The Monitor.)

VICTORIA, B. C.—The twelfth Parliament of British Columbia, which promises to be the most important in its history, has been opened here with a newly elected membership and a newly appointed lieutenant-governor. The governor in his inaugural address congratulated the House and the country at large upon the prosperous condition of the provinces, and upon the splendid condition of its finances which would enable the government to substantially decrease the present rate of taxation without hampering the proper administration of affairs.

Athough a number of important measures will be introduced during the session, the most important will be the railway bill to give effect to the government's agreement with the Canadian Northern Railway Company for the extension of its lines through the province to a point on the west coast of Vancouver island and for the extension of the Kettle River Valley railway as far as Nicola. The officials of the former company have concluded negotiations with the government, and only await the sanction of the Legislature to begin active construction operations.

The present administration was recently returned to power by an overwhelming majority on the strength of its railway policy, and already the general business of the province, particularly of Vancouver and Victoria, has received a decided stimulus in anticipation of the early construction of these railways and of the important steamship service in connection with the former road.

RUMOR SAYS NEXT GOVERNOR MAY BE EARL CARRINGTON

(Special to The Monitor.)

TORONTO, Ont.—The Mail and Empire published a despatch from London in which it is stated on high authority that Earl Carrington, president of the board of agriculture in the Asquith government, will be the next governor-general of Canada, in succession to Earl Grey.

CHINA ASSEMBLY REQUEST REFUSED

PEKING—An imperial edict denies the petition recently submitted by the representatives of the provincial assemblies, who are now in Peking, asking for the early establishment of a Parliament.

The throne adheres to the original plan of an imperial Assembly now and the establishment of a parliament at the end of nine years, according to the constitutional scheme.

BRITISH START MOVEMENT TO SWITZERLAND RESORTS

(Special to The Monitor.)

PARIS—Within the last decade or so it has become the fashion for European sportsmen and women to go to Switzerland for the winter season. Formerly inn-keepers in the mountain resorts shut up their establishments in the autumn and only reopened the following May or June.

The present vogue is due to British initiative. Gradually English people began to forsake the flower-covered fields of the Riviera for the Swiss valleys, attracted by the unusual combination of snow and constant sunshine. Although the thermometer often drops below zero after nightfall, it is often so warm at mid-day that merry-makers are obliged to take off their coats.

Saint Moritz is perhaps the oldest and certainly the most popular of all the fashionable mountain places. In the French cantons there are: Villars, Les Avants, Chateau d'Oex, Montana and Champery. Near Lucerne are Engelberg and Rigi-Kaltbad, and in the valleys around the lake of Thun are Grindelwald, Wengen, Kandersteg and Adelboden. In fact, so great is the enthusiasm for winter sports that each year several new resorts are added to the list.

The growth of Adelboden is typical of many others. Many years ago German travelers became so numerous in the summer time that a colony of wooden hotels soon overtopped the picturesque chalets of the peasants. When the English began spending their holidays in Switzerland an enterprising London tourist agency undertook to supply a certain number of guests. The venture was successful. The place grew in popularity. But five years ago the inkeepers, thinking it would never be a fashionable resort while it catered so largely to excursionists, refused to further admit the agency's convoys. Since that time the class of visitors has become more and more exclusive.

Eight years ago Adelboden had no artificial attractions to offer, but now a special "run" has been made for "luging" (tobogganing on low sleds). Important luging and skiing races are held on the surrounding slopes, and several of the hotels have their own rinks. The visitors are mainly English, although the number of Americans is growing each year.

CHINESE EXPORT TRADE HAS MADE GOOD INCREASE

(Special to The Monitor.)

PEKING—In evidence—if any were needed—of the efficiency of the administration of the imperial maritime customs service, to say nothing of the increasing importance of the trade of the empire, the customs revenue for 1909, estimated in silver, is larger than that of any previous year except 1906, and its sterling value is a quarter of a million higher than that of 1908. The new year (foreign reckoning) has opened with a marked revival of trade, and especially a growth in exports. The most promising feature of this trade is the new export business in "soya" beans from Manchuria to Europe, which is developing so amazingly that it is believed that during the current year it will amount to the equivalent of $30,000,000, United States currency, or £6,000,000.

There has been a noteworthy increase in the prosperity of certain interior provinces; particularly Yunnan and Shansi, in which the cultivation of the poppy has been suppressed. Although currency conditions are unsatisfactory, there is a large increase in the inland trade, and there is a marked improvement in the general prosperity of the people, due to the general tranquillity, to the improvement in communications, the extension of railroads, and the increase in the number of steamers plying on inland waters.

The postoffice, a trustworthy index of China's progress of development, shows an increase in every branch of the service, 480 new offices having been opened during the year 1909, and 40,000,000 more articles handled than were handled in 1908.

South Pole Lecture LONDON LETTER Farmers for Canada

(Special to The Monitor.)

LONDON—Sir Ernest Shackleton delivered recently a private lecture before the Emperor of Germany, at the house of Herr Dernburg, the colonial secretary. The Kaiser attended in naval uniform, says the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail, and a distinguished audience of 35 persons, the smallest before which Sir Ernest has ever lectured, included, besides Herr Dernburg and his wife, Sir Edward Goschen, the British ambassador, and most of the staff of the embassy. Other notable persons of the Emperor's entourage were also present; the Kaiser showed the greatest interest in the lecture, following it with the closest attention, and congratulating the lecturer at the close on the "immense benefits rendered to science by the expedition." The two public lectures which Sir Ernest Shackleton has delivered at Berlin have been received with the greatest enthusiasm.

RAILWAY SETTLING FARMERS IN CANADA.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, the president of the Canadian Pacific railway stated recently that he was prepared to settle suitable British applicants on ready-made farms in Canada. Since this announcement was made there has been a very great increase in the number of visitors and the correspondence received at Charing Cross. It is said that some 40 or 50 applicants have been seen per day. Mr. Gray, the British and European manager, declared, says the Daily Mail "that if we had a thousand farms ready for occupation I believe they could be allotted to suitable applicants within 12 months. Our first 30 families, the pick of the first applicants will sail on March 25. They are all yeomen farmers of the best class, selected from typical home farming districts from Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Yorkshire, the Midlands, the south and the west of England. Each farmer is married and has a family, . . . and a capital of $1000 and upwards. We shall watch their careers closely. They are our test cases.

"The last man who saw me today was a splendid example of the British yeoman. His people have farmed the same land for 300 years in the west of England. He is 35 years old, married, with one boy aged six years. He has over $1000, sufficient to pull him through, and will do well . . . We have had applications, some of which may be favorably considered in time, from commercial clerks, bank clerks, military and naval men, solicitors, shopkeepers and tradesmen of all kinds."

KAISER PUSHING POTTERY SALES

BERLIN—German pottery manufacturers are preparing to protest against the competition of the Kaiser in his capacity as proprietor of the Cadinen pottery works. The Kaiser has been pushing the sale of his pottery products, taking orders from friends and pressing his wares on wealthy Germans.

RUSSIAN ATTACHE WILL BE CHANGED

ST. PETERSBURG—Official denial has been given the report from Vienna that Colonel Martchenko, the Russian military attache at that place, was implicated in the espionage under which the arsenal at Vienna had been placed. Notwithstanding this denial, however, it is announced that Colonel Martchenko will be transferred to Constantinople.

Despatches bearing on this subject stated that Austria demanded the recall of the attache.

Leading Events in Athletic World ❁ Harvard Starts Baseball

HARVARD VARSITY BASEBALL SEASON WILL START TODAY

Battery Candidates Will Report to Captain Lanigan and Coach Pieper This Afternoon.

MANY VACANCIES

Although it will be some days before all the candidates for the Harvard varsity baseball team of 1910 begin active practise, the first work will start this afternoon when the candidates for the battery positions report on Soldiers field to Capt. Charles L. Lanigan and Coach L. P. Pieper. This preliminary work will be conducted in the baseball cage and some professional coach will probably help in the development of the pitchers.

While there will be many vacant positions to fill on the nine, due to the loss of six of last year's regulars, the outlook is not at all discouraging. Two outfield positions, shortstop, first base and catcher are the ones that will require the most attention. Harvey, center, and Dana, left, have graduated and they were two of the strongest players on the team. The loss of Simons at short will be hard to fill. While Briggs was a fine fielding first baseman, he was weak at the bat and his position should be acceptably filled by one of the many candidates that will report. R. C. Brown, substitute to Captain Currier last year, should make a first class man to fill the vacancy left in that position.

Although Newton Hartford, the star left-handed pitcher of last year, has graduated and will not be available, the pitching department should be a very strong one. Hicks is one of the finest college pitchers ever developed at Cambridge and with his being called upon to work in more games during the coming season should prove to be even stronger than in previous years. In addition to him, R. G. McKay will be available and should prove to be a valuable assistant. Christy Matthewson said last winter that McKay was one of the most promising candidates he ever saw, and had he been able to play in 1909 would undoubtedly have made a name for himself. In addition to these two, there are a number of new men from last year's freshman class.

In Captain Lanigan Harvard will undoubtedly have one of the best baseball leaders. He has had many years' experience, having been pitcher and outfielder for Phillips Andover Academy four years before going to Harvard, where he is now playing his third year with the varsity squad. Last year he played third base and proved to be one of the best at that position in any college. He is very popular with the players and will be able to steady the men at critical times, a thing that was noticeably missing in the 1909 team.

CRICKET LEAGUE NAMES SCHEDULE

LOWELL—One of the best schedules ever arranged by the Merrimac Valley Cricket League has been adopted for 1910, and lovers of this outdoor pastime should have a chance to see some very interesting contests during the coming summer. As a number of new players wil be found on the teams in the league when play begins again, the struggle for the championship should be a fine one.

The regular season will open May 7 and close Aug. 20. Fifteen dates have been named and a number of extra exhibitions will be given during the season. The games will be played as follows, the contests taking place on the grounds of the club named first:

May 7—Andover vs. Lawrence; Zion vs. Bunting; North Chelmsford vs. Methuen; Merrimac vs. Mohair.

May 14—Mohair vs. Andover; Merrimac vs. North Chelmsford; Zion vs. Lawrence; Bunting vs. Methuen.

Aug. 6—Mohair vs. Merrimac; Methuen vs. Zion.

Aug. 20—Lawrence vs. Bunting; Zion vs. Merrimac.

DATE FOR CREW REGATTA NAMED

Harvard and Yale Varsity Oarsmen to Meet on the Thames June 30—Freshmen Same Day.

Harvard will row Yale at New London on June 30. Such is the unofficial announcement made by W. F. Garcelon, the graduate athletic director at Harvard. Owing to the fact that the Yale authorities desired an earlier date than usual, in order to coincide with an earlier commencement week, an agreement with the Harvard management has only been reached within the last few days, but the date now selected is satisfactory to both colleges. This arrangement will be approved by the Harvard athletic committee at its next meeting.

In addition to the Yale race, Harvard will row Annapolis on he Severn on April 21, and Cornell on the Charles river basin on May 30. Columbia, Harvard's first opponent last spring, has been dropped in favor of the navy crew. Syracuse, another applicant for a place on the Harvard schedule this spring, is no longer under consideration.

The Harvard freshman crew will row Yale 1913 at New London on the same day as the varsity race. Arrangements are also being made for a race on the Charles river with the eight from the Middlesex school of Concord, Mass.

YALE IS IMPROVING

The past week has done considerable toward determining the intercollegiate basketball championship title of this country for 1910, and while there still remain a number of important games to be played, every indication points toward the same teams heading the list this season as was the case in 1909. Last year the champions of the West did not meet those of the East, so that no one club could actually lay claim to the title; but it is hoped that such a game may be arranged this season.

There now seems to be little doubt that Chicago University will again take the western title for the third successive year. The team has won its contests to date, and the showing made against Northwestern University, when that team was defeated by an overwhelming score of 44 to 6, shows that the maroon has a most powerful scoring machine which should have no difficulty in winning its remaining games. It is interesting to note that E. P. Hubbell, one of the stars of the basketball five and track team, has received an appointment to a Rhodes scholarship, and his work on English university athletic teams will be closely watched.

New York University, Rochester and Columbia appear to be the best of the eastern teams to date. With University of Pennsylvania, they formed the leading class in 1909, but Pennsylvania does not seem to be as strong this year as last and can hardly hope to be rated among the first three.

Although pressed hard by Yale last week and winning by a narrow margin of one point, New York University kept her victory record clean. It is a long time since any college in the East has been able to make such a fine record as is held by that university, and the Columbia five seems to be the only five in this part of the country with a right to challenge her title. A game between these two teams would certainly be worth going a long ways to witness and would doubtless determine the championship of the year.

The present Yale five is one of the best the blue has had in a long time. It has been handicapped considerably in development; but the showing it made against New York University proves beyond question that it will win a large share of its future games.

Of the smaller eastern colleges Tufts and Williams seem to be the strongest. Tufts has easily defeated Brown twice and Technology once and will no doubt keep up the good record established to date. Williams easily disposed of Dartmouth, and as the latter defeated Wesleyan Saturday, the Williamstown college should have a fine chance to win the New England college title.

The Amateur Athletic Union of America has announced that Melvin W. Shepard cannot compete in any more sanctioned games until the suspension placed on him by the Military Athletic League is removed.

—ooo—

Louis P. Myers of New York, a former Massachusetts state and intercollegiate champion won the chief trophy of the New Year's golf tournament at Palm beach Saturday, defeating Walter Fairbanks of Denver in the final round 2 up and 2 to play.

—ooo—

N. W. Banks, who is to meet Hugh Henderson in Detroit next month for the checker championship of America, will give an exhibition at the Wells Memorial Checker Club today. He will play at the Boston Checker Club rooms tomorrow and Wednesday evenings.

TWELVE GAMES FOR NEW YORKS

National League Squad Will Do Its Training in Marlin, Texas, Arriving Home on April 7.

NEW YORK—The management of the New York National League Baseball Club has perfected its plans for the spring training trip and one of the most complete schedules ever arranged for the club has been made up. The preliminary training will be done at Marlin, Tex., where several exhibition games will be played with local teams in addition to the practise work of the squad. The first lot of players to get under way will leave this city Feb. 12. Another will leave Feb. 23, while two parties will leave St. Louis, the first Feb. 18 and the second Feb. 27.

Twelve exhibition games have been arranged for after the team leaves its Marlin training quarters. The first one will take place in Shreveport March 28. The last of these games will take place in Baltimore, April 7, from which place the men will return to New York in time to meet the Yale University nine in the first of the practise games on the polo grounds. The full schedule of exhibition games is as follows:

First team—March 28, Shreveport, La., Texas League; 30, Birmingham, Ala., Southern Association; 31, Atlanta, Ga., Southern Association.

April 1, Greenville, S. C., Carolina Association; 2, Greensboro, S. C., Carolina Association; 4 and 5, Norfolk, Va., Virginia League; 6, Richmond, Va., Virginia League; 7, Baltimore, Md., Eastern League.

Second team—April 4, Roanoke, Va., Virginia League; 5 and 6, Lynchburg, Va., Virginia League.

CHANGE DATE OF OCEAN RACE

NEW YORK—The date of the annual power boat race to Bermuda for the James Gordon Bennett cup has been changed to Saturday, June 25. This is later than usual, the start last year being made Saturday, June 5.

The early date prevented many yachtsmen entering their boats, as men found it inconvenient to take their vacations at that time. It was also difficult to obtain crews, for the young men who are relied upon to man the boats are attending schools and colleges.

Conditions will be the same as last year. The cup is now held by the Heather, Richmond Levering owner.

Three races have been held from this city and one race from Bermuda to this city, as follows: 1907, two starters, Ailsa Craig, winner; 1908, two starters, Aaisa Craig, winner; 1909, four starters, Heather, winner; 1909, race home, three starters, Ilys, winner.

The race is held under the joint auspices of the Motor Boat Club of America and the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club.

U. OF P. NAMES RELAY DATES

PHILADELPHIA—The University of Pennsylvania track management will hold its annual relay races the last Saturday in April as usual. Already many inquiries have been sent in to the management and many assurances given that teams will be on hand, as usual. Last year these races reached the top mark, with over 28 colleges present, while close to 175 schools were represented. It is expected that even this record will be surpassed on April 30.

The group races have been made up with the greatest care, and they should furnish some very fine contests. In addition to these races, there will be three college championships at the mile, the two-mile and the four-mile distance. There will also be a college freshman championship and several special events.

Two very important basketball contests are scheduled to take place this week in the Boston High School Basketball League, X and Y divisions. Should Dorchester High succeed in winning its contest with East Boston High in the X division and South Boston High defeat Boston Latin in the Y division those two schools will undoubtedly win the championships in their respective leagues.

While East Boston High has practically no chance of winning the X championship, High School of Commerce would be placed in a tie with Dorchester for first place should East Boston win. On actual form as shown by the two teams so far this year, Dorchester should win by a comfortable margin. The team has scored 26 more points in its four league games than East Boston has scored in five.

Boston Latin has been showing such remarkable form during the past two weeks that many followers of the school league are picking it to defeat South Boston High in their second meeting tomorrow. The first time they played each other South Boston won out, but the Latin school team is playing a much better game than it showed in the early part of the season, and it will surprise few to see it defeat the present leaders in an exciting contest.

Charlestown High and South Boston High continue to hold the lead in the respective divisions for second teams. Neither one has yet been defeated, and they seem to be almost sure winners of the championship titles, as none of the other teams have shown form to warrant their displacing them.

BROWN RELAY TEAM IS FAST

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—John P. Hartigan, captain of the Brown track team and also captain of the varsity relay team, will lead a squad of fast athletes in the two meets coming next month, the first, Feb. 5, in this city and the second the week after in Mechanics building, Boston. In the first contest Brown will enter men in several races but at Boston the relay team alone will compete, running in a match race against Amherst.

Brown and Wesleyan will meet in a relay race in the meet to be held by the Providence A. C. at the big armory in this city Feb. 5. The race will be one of the features of the entire list inasmuch as both relay teams are remarkably fast. The Brown team contains three of the men who ran last season, and who helped earn the reputation as the fastest college relay team of the year. The fourth place, while somewhat in doubt still, will be given to a man none the less fast, as there are several promising candidates out for it.

The Wesleyan runners have formerly been credited with speed and the team presents a formidable opponent to any four runners. When Amherst is encountered at Boston on Feb. 12, another fast and close contest is looked for. Brown defeated the same team last year with but a few yards to spare, and it is not expected that the race will be one-sided.

TUFTS CANCELS NEW YORK TRIP

MEDFORD, Mass.—The Tufts basketball management has cancelled the trip through New York state originally scheduled for the end of this week, at the close of the midyear examinations. This trip consisted of games with Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y., on Friday night and on Saturday with Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y. Tufts and Cornell met in basketball last winter, Cornell winning, but Colgate is a newcomer on the Medford five's schedule.

The necessary cancelling of these games comes as a disappointment to the Tufts undergraduates who, from the fast work of their team in its recent games, were looking for two more victories. Tufts has lost only one game this season. The cancelling of the Colgate and Cornell games leaves only four more contests on the Tufts schedule.

RATIONAL GOLF

By Jason Rogers.

First-class players vary very little in their long game or approaching, but they do vary most astonishingly in their putting, writes Ernest Lehmann in the London Bystander. Braid's comparative want of success this year has been entirely due to this cause. It was apparent at once at Deal when he temporarily abandoned his favorite Braid-Mills putter. Until he recovers that perfect confidence in his putter which gave him his brilliant victories in 1905, 1906 and 1908 he will not be the formidable force that he was. The same factor holds true in regard to Harry Vardon, whose game is perfect except in this one supremely important department. Unfortunately, in his case, the loss of confidence has been so prolonged and has been marked by such a variety of putting instruments (his collection of putters must be prodigious by this time), that the reestablishment of confidence must be a matter of prolonged effort. Still, there have been days when Vardon has achieved phenomenal records, and when he cannot have missed any putt of reasonable length. Let us hope that 1910 will enable him to discover the philosopher's stone of putting, and that we shall see him armed once more at all points. Herd has not fallen back, but has not quite conquered his uncertainty, now brilliant, now the reverse.

The best putters of the younger brigade are Tom Ball and young Johns, who made such a phenomenal appearance at Deal. Neither of them seems to have the least difficulty in putting. Both hit all their putts very truly and very confidently, and so long as they continue to do this no prize is beyond their reach. Ball has this year made good his claim to be considered the greatest rival of the older players. He was the only man who seriously contested the position with Taylor at Deal, for it was only by a tremendous effort at the very last that Braid managed to get level with Ball. Ball further enhanced his reputation by securing the News of the World prize, his play throughout the tournament, and especially in the final, marking him as a master of the game. Duncan was successful in the great tournament at North Berwick, and can never be left out of the reckoning in all big professional events. Mayo has also advanced his reputation, and is a most painstaking and earnest student of the game.

Everything points to a most interesting situation next year. The veterans are being seriously challenged. The attack, led by Tom Ball, C. Johns, Robson, Duncan and Mayo, will be fiercer than ever before, and it will need all the pertinacity and sustained brilliance of the older men successfully to withstand it.

—ooo—

The great international golf match between Major Foozle of England and Provost Macduff of Scotland began on Wednesday morning, says Golf Illustrated. The players in question represented the maximum handicaps of their respective countries. The weather was wet, and a large company assembled to witness the match. At the first hole (385 yards) the major led off with a low bumping shot to within 350 yards of the pin. The provost drove to the edge of the tee. Twenty minutes afterwards the hole was halved in 14. The provost took the lead at the third, the major having just missed a putt of an inch. At the next, the short hole, the major sliced his seventh into the quarry, and, taking 10 to get out, became 2 down, his opponent having holed out a rather lucky 15. With his drive at the sixth the major struck a spectator, who had stupidly been standing almost at right angles to the tee. On the eighth green the provost skied his putt and lost the hole. A mechanical 11 followed, and the Scotsman turned 1 up. At the tenth, playing a determined game, the major smashed his brassie. At the eleventh the provost drove a divot 150 yards. Approaching from the edge of the thirteenth green, the Scottish representative made the second longest shot of the match. At the fifteenth the major teed a dozen Haskells before clearing the burn, the provost winning in 19. The long hole was halved in a strenuous 25. Late in the day the major drove into the last bunker on the course, the provost following with the like. Here for the next half hour play was of an even nature. Then the major sent for a new niblick. Later the umpire decided to postpone the match.

Seine Has Fallen Two Feet in Paris Flood Situation

PARIS—News from the flooded districts above Paris gives hope of a more rapid fall of the river Seine today and tomorrow. At noon it had fallen two feet. At this rate it would require a fortnight for the river to reach its normal level.

Besides the aid distributed directly by the government and the municipality, more than $250,000 from the fund raised by the newspapers has been handed over to the various relief societies and the local authorities of the various towns and villages near Paris. The press refers gratefully to the spontaneous help coming from abroad, and makes particular mention of the evidences of sympathy in the United States. The total gifts from all sources reached the $283,000 mark Sunday night.

Among the larger contributions are those of $10,000 from the King of Italy, $7000 from the Czar, $5200 from King Edward of England, $5000 from the Queen of England, $2500 from the Prince of Wales, $40,000 from ex-President Loubet, $20,000 from Mme. Loubet, $6000 from M. Loubet's son, and $4000 from President Fallieres.

Sums cabled direct from the United States were $20,000 from the Standard Oil Company, $10,000 from Speyer & Co., bankers, and $5000 from Frank J. Gould.

A partial examination of Paris' sewer system today brought the statement from the engineers that the system has not yet been badly injured. The small loss of life throughout the period of disaster is a feature that is causing grateful comment.

WASHINGTON—Ambassador Bacon, in despatches received at the state department today, says that he expects to be able to transmit to the relief authorities today or Tuesday from f.500,000 to f.1,000,000, presumably contributions from Americans sent to the embassy, in addition to $5000 sent by the Red Cross. The Red Cross today received $5000 from H. C. Frick, which will be transmitted to the American embassy through the state department. In addition, about $2000 was received in the mails today representing scattering contributions from various parts of the United States.

PITTSBURG—Alarm that any of the great architectural masterpieces in Paris are in danger of collapse is wholly unwarranted, according to the long distance view of E. K. Morse, president of the Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania, and chairman of the Pittsburg flood commission.

France Cables Gratitude To Boston and Bay State For Generous Assistance

THE following cablegram was received by the Boston Chamber of Commerce Sunday evening from Paris:

Profoundly touched by the admirable generosity with which the people of Massachusetts have responded to the appeal of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the government of the republic of France addresses you and requests you to express to them its profound gratitude. Let us shake hands.

ALBERT SARRAUT.
Under-secretary of state.

Governor Draper received today the following cablegram from United States Ambassador Bacon at Paris:

Prompt and generous response of Massachusetts gratefully received and with expressions of sympathy is greatly appreciated by government of France. BACON.

New York Opera Benefits to Aid Flooded Parisians

NEW YORK—Both of New York's big opera houses are planning to hold benefits for the aid of Paris. That of the Manhattan opera house will be on Monday afternoon, Feb. 7. Oscar Hammerstein has placed the arrangements for the affair in the hands of Miss Mary Garden. The program will consist of single acts and arias from operas, as Miss Garden selects.

The Metropolitan opera house management announces a benefit concert performance for the afternoon of Sunday, Feb. 6. When the artists heard of the project they unanimously offered their services at the concert in any manner desired.

The program has not yet been arranged, but it is the intention as far as possible so to arrange it as to enlist the services of all of the volunteers.

LEAVE NEW YORK, JEWS ARE URGED

Jacob H. Schiff Advises Young Hebrews Not to Stagnate in Cities, but to Spread Over the Country.

NEW YORK—In a talk before the Young Mens Hebrew Association Sunday Jacob H. Schiff, the banker, urged young men to relieve the Jewish congestion in this city by going to other parts of the country. Mr. Schiff said that the question of persuading the Hebrews of this city to "build up the American empire in other parts of the country" had become a keen subject with him.

He said:

"We don't want too much distress in this city. You young men must go out of this city as soon as you have become educated. Go out all over the United States, found other Hebrew associations like this, and make room here for others.

"The Jew owes a higher duty to this country than merely to be a worker. The Russian Jew has built up this country. But the Jew, to be of value, must be a good Jew. He must respect and hold high his religion. He must practise the ideals which have been those of his race from time immemorial. If he does this he will bring honor to the Jew wherever a Jew is."

WRITING EXPERT RESUMES STAND

The cross-examination of Dr. Bennett F. Davenport of Watertown, handwriting expert, by Attorney Leslie A. Simpson, counsel for the claimant, Daniel Blake Russell, in the Russell will case, was continued before Judge Lawton at the Cambridge probate court today.

Dr. Davenport expressed the opinion that the signature Daniel Russell in the Keating album was written by the same person who wrote the Daniel Russell signatures on the Comer's National College Bank checks used in Comer's Commercial College. The claimant testified in his own examination that he had never attended this school. The respondents claim that Daniel Blake Russell was a scholar there. To support his opinion the witness pointed out numerous instances of identical "unconscious habits" in the different writings.

CUBAN NEGROES TO FORM PARTY

HAVANA—The project of forming a great negro party for the purpose of controlling the government has been revived. Prevision, the organ of the race, has printed the new platform of the Independent Party of Color, which has hitherto lacked aggressiveness. The platform is outlined as follows:

"The Independent Party of Color shall be organized throughout the whole territory of the republic, with a national character. We promise that all Cubans fit to be in it shall figure in the diplomatic corps. We shall work for the revision and fiscalization of all concessions granted from the beginning of the first American intervention."

BRINGS PHILIPPINE SPECIMENS.

SAN FRANCISCO—Dr. G. I. Sims of the Field Museum of Chicago arrived here Sunday on the steamer Manchuria with 3000 specimens collected by himself and 1000 collected by William Jones, his friend and associate in the Field Museum, who was slain by Filipinos, Oct. 17, in the Luzon mountains.

TRADE AND PUBLIC BOTH SAY BOYCOTT GIVES SATISFACTION

Dealers and the public both profess satisfaction on the second day of the so-called meat boycott. Both declare the istuation could scarcely be more suitable, although the boycotters are eager to impress upon the public that the success of the movement depends upon every family concerned pursuing its policy of abstention regardless of reports that the meat trade has not fallen off.

The members of the Boston Consumers protest committee says that they are satisfied with the situation so far.

The Rev. Herbert S. Johnson of the committee declared that if it was true that the packers were cutting down the shipments of meat in the effort to hold back on the supply and thus manipulate the market, they would be condemned by the public, and that such action in the future would count severely against them.

Max Mitchell, chairman of the committee, said: "We are simply watching and waiting now for developments. We have considered all plans and all possible developments. The whole question is now squarely put up to the citizens of Boston. We have investigated thoroughly the whole field. We would educate and organize the people in every way we can. But we believe the they must take the initiative."

Orn S. Lynde of Haley & Lynde, 80 Faneuil Hall market, today said that wholesale prices of beef are a bit stronger than last week, and that retail prices at his store are the same.

"It is too early yet to notice any change in the demand for beef," said Mr. Lynde. "However, Saturday's business was ahead of our expectations."

It was said at the store of John C. Anderson, 50 North street, that the prices on different grades of beef are the same as a week ago. The price on wholesale beef, it was said, had advanced a dollar over that of last week. No change has been noticed in the volume of business.

Arthur E. Dorr of Arthur E. Dorr & Co., 1-3 Union street, said that there has been no change in the volume of trade at his store and that the general price of beef is a little higher than last week if anything.

J. V. Fletcher & Sons, 66 Faneuil hall market, report an undiminished demand for beef at their store and the same prices as prevailed last week.

Dunning & Eldredge, another Faneuil hall provision firm, say that their beef is selling today at slightly lower prices than last week and that there is no change in the volume of trade.

Packing Company's Books Are Investigated Today

CHICAGO—When the government's investigation of the so-called beef trust is resumed by the federal grand jury today it is expected the books and documents of the National Packing Company will be taken up. Ralph Crews, general counsel for the company, is scheduled to apper.

Before the end of the week it is expected officials of Armour & Co., Morris & Co. and Swift & Co. will be questioned.

A postal card crusade, in which the women of the United States will be asked to write a postal card to President Taft asking him to break the so-called meat trust, is being organized by Mrs. Anita Comfort Brooks, president of the Gotham Club, who has already sent out 1000 letters. Mrs. Brooks has already written the President. It is proposed that an endless chain of letters be sent to President Taft.

An ordinance will be presented to the city council tonight prohibiting cold storage men from keeping their supplies more than 60 days.

Today there will be published in the Congressional Record tables prepared by Senator Lodge showing in condensed form the increased cost

WASHINGTON—The House ways and means committee today, anticipating an inquiry into the increased cost of living, authorized Chairman Payne and Minority Leader Champ Clark to collaborate in preparing a resolution as to the scope of such an investigation and defining the form of procedure.

It is stated this afternoon that the decision of the committee was the direct result of word conveyed from the White House from Representative Longworth (Rep., O.).

Commissioner Neill of the bureau of labor in his report scatters the responsibility considerably. Among the causes for the rise in his opinion are:

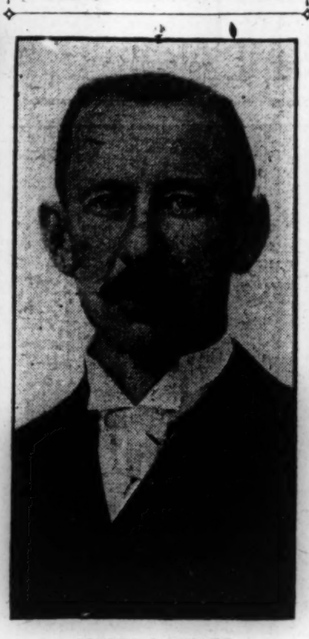

Changes in demand due to changes in fashions; legislation altering internal revenue taxes, import duties and bounties; inspection; use of other articles as substitutes (for example, an advance in the price of beef will cause an increased consumption of pork and mutton and probable increase in price of both); speculative manipulation of supply or raw market; unusual demand owing to steady employment of consumers; overproduction; short supply owing to disputes between capital and labor; organization or combination of mill owners or producers.

NEW YORK—Wholesalers are asking for a repeal of the duty on Canadian, Argentina and Mexican beef. "Eat No Meat" signs are posted all over the West Side, even in butchers' shops. Restaurants pay special attention to meat boycotters. Eggs have dropped another cent.

PANAMA BOND BILL PASSES HOUSE.

WASHINGTON—The Panama bond bill, carrying $30,000,000, passed the House today as reported.

WORKING HORSES MAY TAKE PRIZES

Annual Parade Memorial Day to Stimulate Keener Competition This Year Among Blue Ribboners.

The annual workhorse parade will be held as usual on Memorial day, and this year, to make competition more keen among workhorse owners, a championship prize will be awarded in each class or division for the best horse or team of horses in that class.

It is expected that the competition for these prizes will excite much enthusiasm among merchants, truckmen, contractors, coal dealers, milkmen, laundry men and others that have hitherto participated.

Entries will be received from any place within 15 miles of Boston. The only condition is that horses to be eligible for a prize must have taken a ribbon at the parade of 1909.

The following directors of the Workhorse Parade Association were elected at a recent meeting:

President, Henry C. Merwin; vice-presidents, Arthur Perrin and Francis Peabody, Jr.; secretary, Lewis A. Armistead; treasurer, Joshua Atwood, 3d, Charles L. Burrill, George W. Harrington, John H. Jewett, Austin Peters, W. D. Quimby and Benjamin W. Wells.

MINERS TO CLOSE MEETING TONIGHT

INDIANAPOLIS—The convention of the United Mine Workers of America is scheduled to adjourn tonight and it is probable that a majority of the 1100 delegates will go to Toledo for the joint conference with the bituminous coal mine owners of western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, inasmuch as this conference will decide the basis of uniform contracts in all the other districts of the United States and Canada.

An increase from 90 cents, which is now paid miners, to $1 a ton, with an eight-hour day and half-holiday on Saturday, was recommended by the scale committee in its report to the convention today.

The operators, according to reports, will not yield to an increase in wages. The sentiment in the national miners' union is unanimously for a general strike if the operators refuse an increase of at least 10 per cent. The western Pennsylvania miners stand for a 20 per cent increase.

FIRST COLLEGE CLASS OF YEAR

NEW YORK—The first baccalaureate sermon of the year was preached Sunday afternoon at the College of the City of New York by President John H. Finley to the class of 1910. This class graduates next month, and has the distinction of being the first among the hundreds of colleges and universities in the United States to begin its commencement exercises.

TAX CASE HEARING IN MARCH.

WASHINGTON—The United States supreme court today decided to hear the seven corporation tax cases on March 14.

HONESTY AND THRIFT OF HIBBARD REGIME HIGHLY COMMENDED

The first report of the Boston finance commission to be submitted to the Legislature was filed with the clerk of the House today and probably will be read before the members at this afternoon's session. After being read the report will be referred to the metropolitan affairs committee.

In this report the commission takes occasion to laud many acts of Mayor George A. Hibbard, but also sharply criticizes him for several others which the commission believes should not have been done.

First and foremost the report declares that Mayor Hibbard's administration has been a great improvement over all others in recent years for honesty and economy, and the commissioners devote some space to the matter of the city's indebtedness, showing that there has been a great decrease in the past year, the debt having diminished nearly $2,000,000.

Superintendent of Streets Guy C. Emerson comes in for praise in the handling of his department, the efficiency of which, it is stated, has been greatly increased.

Mayor Hibbard is censured for the appointment of Assessors Edward G. Richardson and Alonzo F. Andrews, these appointments being termed deliberate gifts of $8000 of the city's money, and the report states that the expenditures in the mayor's office, instead of being models for the heads of departments to follow, have been lavish and indicate an utter disregard for economy.

The commissioners state in their report that they believe the new charter amendments will prove of great value to the city and an aid to efficient and honest administrations; they recommend civil service regulations for employees in the penal institutions department, the city treasurer's and city collector's offices and the Suffolk county offices, and urge that some action be taken to secure a more equal payment of the expenses for the maintenance of the county institutions, for which Boston is now overcharged.

Relative to the decrease of the city debt, the report says:

"The most important thing to be noted is that the rapid increase of the city's debt has been checked. In the two years from Jan. 31, 1906, to Jan. 31, 1908, the increase, exclusive of the metropolitan, state and rapid transit debts, was $1,506,926.72, while in the year and 11 months from Jan. 31, 1908, to Dec. 31, 1909, there has been a decrease of $1,812,809.88, of which $1,000,000 is due to the fact that the city applied to the reduction of its debt the money received from the sale of the insane hospital property.

"In these two years no money has been borrowed for current expenses or for purposes not the legitimate subject of loans. The practise of borrowing money for 'street improvements' has been abandoned; the money needed for this purpose has been provided from taxes. In the last two years there has been less frequent resort to the practise of borrowing money outside the debt limit than in previous years.

In reference to the street department, the report says in part:

"The most notable improvement has been made in the street department. The contract system has been greatly extended and the department force considerably reduced. The efficiency of the force has also shown a marked increase.

"The loss on day labor, as compared with contract work, though large, is not so great as it has been. The total cost of maintenance over the entire area of macadam roads, including street cleaning by the paving division, was 11 cents per square yard in 1905-06, 8 cents in 1907-08 and 5.5 cents in 1908-09."

Communications relative to the principal assessors, matter to be printed in the City Record, contract for street lighting, water pipes to Spectacle island, appropriations for the year 1909-10, expenditures for 1909, contracts for the construction of a sewer in North Market street and of Stony Brook conduit, the appointment of two additional principal assessors, a new building for the East Boston court and police station, activity of city employees in circulating petitions for signatures for candidates for political office, contracts for coal for the ferry and sewer divisions and the penal institutions department are given in appendices.

Tables are also appended showing the number of contracts in city departments for $2000 or more, advertised and not advertised from 1885 to 1909.

WESTERN AVENUE BRIDGE REPAIRED

The work of repairing the Western avenue bridge, Cambridge, will be completed today. The work was started Dec. 8 and has amounted practically to rebuilding the bridge. The draw has been completely done over. New stringers and new sheathing have been added and when the structural work is finished the bridge will be painted. The cost of repairing the span is divided equally between the cities of Boston and Cambridge. It is estimated that the renovated bridge will last for 15 years.

PRESIDENT MELLEN ASKS COOPERATION OF RAILROAD HANDS

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Mutual cooperation and information as to the work of his company and its employees were themes of a brief speech of President Mellen of the New Haven Railroad Company at the union convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen Sunday night.

Mr. Mellen wanted, he said, as well as his men, a 10-hour day; he wanted double pay for overtime and if the men would help him he promised to help them and said they should work as fellow employees together.

President Mellen referred briefly to the proposed employers' liability act, which he asked, if it must come, should come by degrees. He called attention to the fact, almost unknown and never appearing in the newspapers, that his corporation had a pension fund of 200 names, paying out $200,000 a year, to which no employee had to pay a cent.

He referred to a statement which he had made to a former stockholders' meeting in which had excited hostile criticism (namely, his statement that higher wages brought poorer service) and, while not receding from that general statement, he said that there is now no more efficient body in the world than the New Haven road's engineers.

"The thanks of the company are due," he said, "for pulling us through such a period of depression as the last two years. I am proud to be the 'old man' of such a body."

SOCIETY URGES BOSTON REFORMS

The United Improvement Association has announced that with every section of the city except South Boston affiliated, it will, with the passing of popular government as represented by the old board of aldermen and councilmen, be the only means through which the people may voice their local needs.

The association will meet monthly. Since it was organized last May, monthly meetings have been held. Each organization affiliated sends three delegates.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday night at the Boston City Club. The association has these committees: City budget, legal and legislative, parks, playgrounds and public buildings, public health, schools, and transportation. It is a rule that each of the 15 affiliated associates must ascertain local problems before bringing them to the central body.

The association declared for the retailing of milk in sealed bottles and the board of health has made May 1 next the date on which this reform becomes effective.

The association headquarters are on Beacon street and the monthly meetings will be on the first Wednesday at the Boston City Club.

PLAN TO ABOLISH ABUSE OF FAVOR

CHICAGO—A general campaign against abuses of the goods on approval system is to be begun. The device which is intended to reduce "on approval" abuses is a glaring red tag about two inches wide and four inches long. On it is printed in large black letter, "This article will not be accepted if this ticket is detached."

But instead of the tag being tied to the article it is attached in a conspicuous place by a lead seal similar to those used to close mail bags and money bags. The only way to get the tag off is to cut it, and this cannot be done without detection.

SYRIAN ANTIQUES REACH PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J.—A number of interesting antiques, brought from Syria by the Princeton expedition of 1909, headed by Professor Butler '93, have been added to the art museum collection. Some of the articles are of rakkaware, an ancient glazed pottery found in portions of Asia, and of which specimens are to be seen in limited quantities in European museums. There are besides glass bottles, bronze articles of ornament, a small white stone statue and a marble bowl with carvings and inscriptions, bought in Damascus and said to have come from Mesopotamia.

Our commission does not go so far, however, as to say that the tunnel must be built. But it does have a great bearing on this subject.

Mr. Cushing, the chairman of the joint board, said that he had no doubt that the railroads would respond to this resolve for them to study electrification. He said that the New Haven road is already making a vigorous study of it and the New York Central road also. There was no opposition to this feature of the report and Chairman Crocker went on to the next one, to increase the powers of the right to take by eminent domain. He said that it has long been the hope of the business men of Boston that there should be a great traffic highway across the diameter, as it were, of the present semi-circular way round Atlantic avenue, Commercial and Causeway streets, from the South to the North terminal.

If this highway is to be built it would be of value to have it follow the course laid out for the railroad tunnel across the city, the traffic road for the teams above, the railroad trains running beneath. In a city laid out at right angles where such a highway is projected there are left building lots which are still of value, but in a city whose streets were laid out as the cow-paths ran, the laying on tof such a highway leaves remnants too shallow and narrow to be of value for building lots.

The problem now is how to combine front and rear pieces to make them of value, and it is not only a question of owners but of tenants. He cited one instance on Summer street near Washington where a tenant with a questionable lease of three years demanded $100,000 to quit the premises and even as high as $150,000 has been demanded by lessees. In order to obviate this difficulty the commissioners felt that the right of eminent domain should be extended farther than the statute of 1904 now places it. It is permitted to take the whole of an estate, a part of which may be needed for highway purposes, but this is not adequate. It may be necessary to cut into a rear estate and as there is likely to arise a question of constitutionality for such taking the joint board recommends that the Legislature obtain the opinion of the supreme court and will submit a draft of interrogatories to be so submitted.

CUMMINGS JURY QUICKLY SECURED

A jury was quickly secured at 11:45 a. m. today at the Cambridge court house for the trial of the first of the so-called Framingham cases. This is the case against Charles S. Cummings, who is charged with larceny and with having in his possession an alleged forged note. Assistant District Attorney Charles Wier opened the case for the government. Leonard B. Chandler is foreman of the jury. The other jurors are: Henry B. Jacobs, James Fitzpatrick, Robert Roddon, John M. Schwartz, Harry P. Bossom, John J. McMorrow, John E. McKay, Walter S. Butts, Bernard Conlon, John W. Cremen and Martin T. Flinn.

John B. Lombard, the deposed town treasurer, was put on the witness stand at noon. He testified that the note in question, the one it is said Mr. Cummings sold to the Washington Savings Institution, was made out by him at Mr. Cummings' request. He said that he had signed the names of William H. Walsh and Frank P. Stockwell, selectmen of the town of Framingham, to the note, but he had never received any money for it in any capacity.

Mr. Walsh and Mr. Stockwell had previously testified that they had not signed the note.

PREPARE GREAT WATERWAY BILL

ALBANY, N. Y.—New York distances all other states in the gross total of hydraulic power in use, according to the fifth annual report of the state water supply commission.

The commission estimates that no less than 1,500,000 horsepower can be ultimately developed on the interior streams of New York without counting the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers.

The commission, therefore, presents a draft of a proposed bill for a general and systematic development of the water resources of the state.

TEXAS TO PLANT BIG COTTON AREA

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—While it is too early to forecast the acreage that will be put under cotton in 1910 there is every indication that it will be much greater then it was last year. Farmers are now busy getting their land into shape and many of them contemplate planting some of the new varieties of cotton recently introduced by the United States experimental farms.

LABOR EXCHANGES DUE TO PARLIAMENT OPENED IN BRITAIN

English Party Status

	General Election.	State at Dissolution.	*Newly Elected.
Liberals	379	373	273
Laborites	51	40	41
Irish Nat.	83	83	87
Total coalit'n	513	502	396
Unionists	157	168	274
Majority	356	334	122

*Seven constituencies forecasted by Associated Press.

The figures for the general election of 1906 and the state of parties at the dissolution are taken from the London Times. They differ in detail from the summary previously used.

LONDON—England's new system of labor exchanges, resulting from an unemployed act recently enacted by Parliament, was put into operation today for the first time. The system is hoped greatly to ameliorate the country's problem of the unemployed, which is one of the difficulties any legislative majority must encounter.

The Liberals attribute the shaving down of their majorities at the polls to a considerable extent to the change in favor of this unemployed class, which failed to be greatly benefited by Liberal enactments.

Exchanges were opened in various places throughout England and so much is expected of them that the press generally refers to the movement as an epoch in England's industrial life.

Every exchange is provided with a record, prepared with unusual care, of the firms and industrial plants in England where employees are needed and also of the number and location of the unemployed in England, with their peculiar fitness to certain kinds of employment. The plan marks the first organized attempt in England to solve the question of providing work for the thousands who are idle.

The exchanges are counted on to save the unemployed the expense of searching for work where it is already known that no work exists. The exchanges will pay the cost of transportation to the fields of employment.

The reelection of J. G. Hancock, Labor candidate for the middle division of Derbyshire, announced today, completes the elections for the new Parliament in England. The remaining half dozen constituencies to make returns are Scotch and Irish.

The final totals in England alone give the Unionist tariff reformers 239 seats, the Liberals and Laborites combined 227 or a Unionist majority of 12 compared with a Liberal-Labor majority of 211 received in 1906.

Several cabinet changes are probable when the new government is formed. Reginald McKenna, who has been unpopular as first lord of the admiralty, will probably be dropped. He may be given a peerage. Richard Burdon Haldane, secretary of state for war, may become head of the navy. John Burns, president of the local government board, will probably succeed Herbert J. Gladstone as home secretary. Winston Spencer Churchill will take the place vacated by John Burns, and they will each get $25,000 instead of $12,500 as salaries.

MAY BE ANOTHER TRUST CO. MERGER

NEW YORK — Announcement was made here that Warner Van Norden and his son, Warner H. Van Norden, have withdrawn from the affairs of the Van Norden Trust Company. Mr. Van Norden Sr., was a director and his son a director and president of the company.

The new president of the company is Charles A. Moore Sr., who is also chairman of the board of directors. Other officers and directors of the company are nearly all connected with the Carnegie Trust Company, and the retirement of the Van Nordens gives strength to a rumor widely current of late that the Van Norden Trust Company, the Twelfth Ward Bank, the Nineteenth Ward Bank, and the Carnegie Trust Company will all merge.

ROAD ESTIMATES ARE CALLED FOR

ALBANY, N. Y.—The state commission of highways has called for proposals to be received on Feb. 14, 16 and 18, for the improvement of about 230 miles of highways. One hundred and twenty-five miles are country roads, the cost of improvements being borne by the state, county and town, and the balance, about 100 miles, are state roads, to be improved at the sole expense of the state. The total estimated cost of the work approximates $3,200,000.

Happenings in New York

HELPING TO BETTER NEW YORK

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Serves on Special Grand Jury.

NEW YORK—Expectancy is felt by those desirous of betterment of civic conditions in New York and the country in general, as to the next development in the investigation which is being conducted by the special grand jury of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is foreman. Mr. Rockefeller, who, as the son of "the richest man in the world," is one of the most conspicuous young men is, perhaps, not the less resolute because he took up the task against his own personal inclination, and to the neglect of his own private activities and interests.

He was selected to take charge of the jury's investigations by Judge O'Sullivan because of his well known character and responsibility, and although he was averse to serving, when the judge placed it upon the ground of being a duty which he owed to the community he withdrew his objection.

The thoroughness of the search which is being made as to the truth or otherwise of the allegations which have been made in regard to conditions existing in New York as well as the character of the men associated with Mr. Rockefeller, seems to guarantee that either rigorous prosecutions will result or else the aspersions against the city will be disproved.

STATE TELEPHONE CONTROL FAVORED

Official of Buffalo Company Says He Is Not Opposed to Hughes Bill if Cities Are Shorn of Power.

NEW YORK—There is no opposition to the state control of independent telephone companies, according to a statement given out here by Burt G. Hubbell, president of the Federal Telephone Company of Buffalo, who has been attending the sessions of the legislative committee on telephone and telegraph service appointed by Governor Hughes. Mr. Hubbell, however, states definitely that zones of state and municipal supervision ought not to overlap. In his statement he says:

"The independent telephone interests of New York contend they should first be relieved of municipal control of such parts of their business as may be controlled by the public service commission, so as to avoid the confusion of serving two masters.

"We feel that no power should be given to the commission to prevent extension of the area of competition when proper franchises have been obtained, nor should the commission have power to compel interconnection between telephone companies in competition, as such an interconnection would tend eventually to create a monopoly."

Mr. Hubbell says that competition up the state is so active that it provides automatically a degree of development and a schedule of rates that could not be improved by public service control.

N. Y. C. RAILROAD MAKES CHANGES

NEW YORK—Several important changes are officially announced in the passenger traffic department of the New York Central railroad today.

Gerritt Fort, who a few years ago retired as assistant general passenger agent of the Union Pacific, becomes an assistant to Vice-President C. F. Daly and becomes general passenger agent of the lines east of Buffalo, with headquarters in New York, succeeding John F. Fairland, who returns to the accounting department.

Another promotion is that of L. F. Vosburgh, who becomes general passenger agent. Charles F. Smith, present general superintendent of the New York Central, has been made general superintendent of passenger transportation, with additional jurisdiction over the Boston & Albany. Mr. Smith is succeeded by William J. Trippe.

SUBWAY TO COST STUPENDOUS SUM

NEW YORK—The new subway is going to be the most costly railroad in the world.

The present system cost $35,000,000 to build and lay down. For equipment and extensions $45,000,000 more has been spent, making $80,000,000 in all. The new system will cost $100,000,000 to bore and lay down, and when ready for operation, with all stations built and an adequate equipment of power houses and cars, will demand in all the stupendous sum of $240,000,000.

STRIKE BLOCKED BY MR. GOMPERS

NEW YORK—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, worked Sunday to prevent the threatened sympathetic strike of 100,000 men in the building trades and when he left the city for Washington at night he felt satisfied that his efforts had been successful.

The last strike of the skilled mechanics in 1904 involved a loss of millions of dollars in wages. It lasted six months and caused much distress.

Ramblings of a Stub Pen

New York Daily Letter.

NEW YORK—The foreign service appointments from this state have been greatly increased since the titular designation of Elihu Root changed from secretary to senator. And thereby hangs a tale, which comes fresh from Washington, and is well worth repeating:

Senator Depew had very little success in the matter of fulfilling all the demands made upon him for patronage in the foreign service when Mr. Roosevelt was in the White House and Mr. Root in the state department. Whenever Mr. Depew would ask Mr. Root to appoint a bright young man from New York in the consular service, Mr. Root would say:

Senator Root Bests His Colleague.

"I am very sorry, Depew, but New York already has 14 per cent more than its quota of foreign appointments."

Mr. Depew was compelled to listen a score of times to the story about the 14 per cent excess. It became so monotonous that he was glad to turn over to Mr. Root himself the job of obtaining foreign patronage for New Yorkers, when the latter entered the Senate last March. Two or three patronage plums from the state department shortly thereafter fell to the lot of New York.

The senior senator was naturally curious to learn how Mr. Root had succeeded and made some inquiries. It turned out that when Mr. Root, as a senator, made his first trip to the state department offices to ask for places for New York men, he was met by Secretary Knox. The latter had been coached by his subordinates.

"I am very sorry, Root," said Mr. Knox, "but New York's quota is already more than full. Your state has more than 14 per cent——"

"Stop it," interrupted Mr. Root. "That 14-per-cent story was my exclusive property. Furthermore, I am the chairman of the senate committee on expenditures for the state department, and I mean business."

That settled the matter, and it has been been remarked since that New York's foreign appointments are now about 18 per cent in excess of the state's quota.

* * *

Senator Depew's candidacy to succeed himself is attracting an unusual amount of attention throughout New York. He has no effective opposition, Timothy L. Woodruff having stepped aside in his favor. Several other names have been mentioned in connection with the senatorship, but hardly seriously. The concensus of opinion seems to be that "it all depends upon Roosevelt."

New "Destructor" of Refuse Attracts Notice

The destructor for the treatment of all city refuse, which is located on Staten island, is being favored as a model by various municipalities which contemplate installing like plants. This "destructor" has been in operation for about a year and appears to be notably successful. The refuse has heretofore been fed into furnaces by hand, but recently an automatic feeder was installed and is reported to be working satisfactorily. This cheapens the cost of operation, which is said to be moderate.

The Staten Island plant cost $68,000 and treats 60 tons of refuse a day. It takes ashes and all forms of refuse except garbage, so there is no necessity of compelling citizens to separate their ashes from other refuse, as is done in some cities with great difficulty and which requires the keeping of three receptacles—one for garbage, one for ashes and one for all other refuse.

The product of the "destructor" furnaces is a clinker which after treatment is one of the best ingredients for cement walk foundations and in fact for all concrete construction. The Staten Island type is known as the Heenan "destructor." Its success is largely due to its perfect combustion. The average heat in the combustion chambers is 2000 F.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE BREWER TALKS OF LAW AND JUSTICE

MONTCLAIR, N. J.—David J. Brewer, associate justice of the United States supreme court, delivered an address in Unity church, Montclair, Sunday night, his subject being "What a Judge Sees and Believes." He likened life unto a glass into which all look from a material or spiritual standpoint.

"We learn," said he, "that all of the elements of nature work in perfect unity and we shall yet see a note of music and hear a ray of light. No human instrumentality has as yet been potent enough to change the laws of nature. When we enter the moral world we are confronted with the fact that no human agency will ever measure its atoms.

"There is no changeable atom in the human soul. The highest thought of moral life is justice, obtaining for each his exact due. It establishes a perfect balance between the act and actor, but absolute justice is incapable of administration at the hands of man.

"A dozen men may purchase land from the government. Eleven will develop theirs and add to its value. The twelfth will do little or nothing, but become wealthy through the labors of his fellows. The law protects him. And he calls this justice.

"Men in different states commit crime. One may be arraigned before a cold-blooded judge, who imposes the maximum penalty, another is dealt with by a gentler judge, who imposes the minimum penalty. Both have received justice.

"Believing in a supreme being, however, we hold to the facts that His infinite wisdom will correct those errors, which we are powerless to prevent, that at some time and somewhere all the shortcomings of human frailty will be made good. Justice and mercy are alike handmaids of the omnipotent. After 45 years of judicial life, varied and complex, I have therefore learned to see in the cross the symbol of faultless justice, and in the resurrection of Christ the prophecy and proof of its final triumph."

HISTORIC CHURCH SAVED BY WOMAN

NEW YORK—The Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield, pastor of the Old First Presbyterian church, at Fifth avenue and Eleventh street, announced at the service Sunday morning that the endowment fund of the church had been increased to $300,000 by a gift of $180,000 from Mrs. D. Willis James.

Dr. Duffield said: "Mrs. James by her openhanded liberality has put the whole community in her debt, for she has preserved to the city one of its choicest architectural treasures."

The church will celebrate its bi-centennial in 1910.

CITY'S CONGESTION IS NOT GREAT, SAYS OFFICIAL'S REPORT

WASHINGTON—The crowding of immigrants in the congested districts of large cities is much less prevalent than is popularly supposed and common report of bad living conditions among such immigrants is much overdrawn, according to an exhaustive report upon immigrants in cities transmitted to Congress today by the immigration commission.

The report, which was prepared under the direction of E. A. Goldenweiser and makes a volume of approximately 600 pages, is based on a study of over 10,000 households in some of the most congested districts of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, Buffalo and Milwaukee.

It shows that the population of congested districts is composed mostly of recent emigrants, one third of the families canvassed having been in the United States less than five years and two thirds less than 10 years. In the cities covered it was found that there was an average of 134 persons per 100 rooms occupied, including kitchens, and an average of 234 persons per 100 sleeping rooms. The number of persons per 100 rooms occupied in the different cities follows:

Boston 144, Philadelphia 141, New York and Cleveland 139, Buffalo 133, Chicago 126 and Milwaukee 115.

Out of every 10 families visited one family owned its own home. This home ownership averaged one in five in Milwaukee, one in six in Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo; one in 15 in Philadelphia, one in 22 in Boston, one in 200 in New York.

NOTED BANKER SEES A PROSPEROUS YEAR, GUIDED BY MR. TAFT

DETROIT, Mich.—That the United States is facing a prosperous and successful year, confident in President Taft's integrity, is the prediction today of Col. Frederick E. Farnsworth, secretary of the American Bankers Association, who is here on a visit.

"Banks at the present time are not burdened with a surplus of money," he said. "That is a good indication, as it shows that money is having an outlet in large interests that are in splendid condition.

"Among financiers there is a feeling of implicit confidence in President Taft. While he has made some statements recently as to his feeling about trusts and corporate interests there is a belief in his integrity. Whatever he does will be done in a way that won't affect the best interests of the country at large.

"Opposition to the postal system is based on the belief that the government has no right to go into the banking business."

THINKS DECADENCE OF COMPETITION TO BRING COOPERATION

That an age of socialism will follow the present capitalistic era and that competition will be supplanted by cooperation is the opinion of Prof. Walter Rauschenbusch of Rochester, N. Y., as expressed in his address at Ford hall Sunday evening.

"Already a great change has come in the attitude of the public toward public service corporations," said Professor Rauschenbusch. "Such corporations are made to see and feel more already their responsibility to the public. And people are more and more coming to regard certain lines of business as in the nature of public service business—as business in which the welfare of the public is concerned—such as mining and especially coal mining."

The Rev. Dr. A. A. Berle in his sermon at the Shawmut Congregational church Sunday evening discussed some of the aspects of the present agitation against the beef trust.

He said in part:

"It seems to take some great upheaval to show the people the power which is in their hands at any time they want to use it. Cooperation is the key by which almost any of the evils in America can be successfully beaten and destroyed."

The Rev. Herbert S. Johnson spoke on "The Meat Protest' at the evening service at the Warren Avenue Baptist church Sunday. Special invitations had been sent to butchers and provision dealers and several were present to hear the sermon.

In speaking on the probable results of the boycott he said:

"The protest will result sooner or later in action tending to make known the causes of the high cost of living, and after the causes have been discovered remedies for the permanent alleviation of the abuses will follow."

NEW YORK MARKET SETTLES DOWN TO A NARROW GROOVE

Break in Third Avenue the Only Feature, While Considerable Activity Is Shown in Some Boston Securities.

LOCAL COPPERS UP

The New York stock market gave a better account of itself today than has been noted for some time past. It was neither a bear nor a bull affair. Trading was on a moderate scale, prices were fairly firm and there were indications that the decline that has been in progress for some time had been checked temporarily at least. The big interests who have been held responsible for the shaking out stocks have had presumably thought it wise to call a halt for the time being in the rather reckless downward movement securities were undergoing, although there were no indications that the market would start upward again. Trading generally was dull. The Boston market was relatively more interesting.

Reading was active as a leader and made good progress to a higher level during the early sales. The stock opened ⅜ higher than Saturday's closing price at 159¾ and rose 1½ during the first hour. Union Pacific opened off ⅜ at 187½, reacted fractionally and then advanced a point.

U. S. Steel opened off ¼ at 83¾ and then improved a good fraction. Amalgamated Copper at 82 was unchanged at the opening. It reacted slightly and then advanced. Fluctuations generally were within a narrow range. A break in Third Avenue from 15⅝ to below 13 was the only noteworthy feature of the forenoon market.

Lake Copper attracted a good deal of attention on the local market. It opened unchanged at 74½, jumped to 79, fell back several points and again advanced. North Lake opened up ½ at 17, advanced to 18 and then reacted. Calumet & Arizona has had almost as spectacular a career as Lake Copper. It opened ¾ lower this morning at 71. The next sale was at 75. It later continued to improve fractionally. Franklin was strong. It opened up ½ at 19 and sold above 20. Superior Copper opened unchanged at 57 and advanced above 60. United Fruit opened up a point at 183 and rose over a point. North Butte was up ⅛ at the opening at 41¾ and reacted during the session. Wolverine was a strong feature. It opened unchanged at 140 and jumped to 145.

DIVIDENDS

The Stevens Manufacturing Company has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent.

The City Manufacturing Company has voted that dividends for the year shall be distributed at the rate of $4 a share, on Feb. 1, May 1, Aug. 1 and Nov. 1 of this year.

National Railways of Mexico has declared a regular semi-annual dividend of 1 per cent on first preferred, payable Feb. 10.

The National Carbon Company declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock, payable Feb. 15 to stock of record Feb. 1.

The London City and Midland Bank of London declared a dividend of 18 per cent. The bank is one of the greatest with 600 offices and deposits aggregating $375,000,000.

Diamond Match Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, a reduction of ½ of 1 per cent quarterly. In 1909 the rate was cut from 10 per cent to 8 per cent. The dividend is payable March 15 to stock of record Feb. 28. A circular will be distributed to stockholders explaining the reduction.

THE COTTON MARKET.

NEW YORK—The cotton market opened steady five points higher to two lower. March 14.15@14.16, May 14.25@14.27, July 14.22@14.23, August 13.85@13.86, September 12.85.

Atwood Violett & Co.—It looks as though prices will remain around this level for some little time, underlying conditions being too bullish to permit of much of a decline, while on the other hand public buying is loath to reenter, which will, no doubt, give a see-saw market.

LIVERPOOL — Cotton business quiet, prices easier. American middling uplands 7.68. Sales 7000; speculation 6000, none American. Futures opened easier. Tenders, new, 400.

OPERATING COST OF NORTHWESTERN MUCH INCREASED

Company Is Spending Much Money for Maintenance of the Road, Transportation and New Equipment.

INCOME IS LARGER

NEW YORK—The gross operating income of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company during the five months ended Nov. 30, according to the recent report to the stock exchange, increased 11 per cent over the corresponding period of 1908. Greater gross earnings, however, were more than eaten up by increase in operating expenses, these showing an excess of approximately 18 per cent over 1908. Taxes were reduced 3.8 per cent, making in all a decrease in net income for the five months of $472,941, or 5.8 per cent.

Preferred dividends accrued to amount of $746,500, leaving a surplus applicable to the common of $6,842,754, or 6.8 per cent, which is at the rate of about 15 per cent for the year. Northwestern common at present pays 7 per cent.

In calculating that earnings on the common were at the rate of 15 per cent during the first five months of the fiscal year, no account is taken of the new stock issue, aggregating $30,502,800, and making the total amount $130,119,000. On the increased common stock the road is now earning the equivalent of 12 per cent a year, which will easily pay present dividend and still leave a satisfactory surplus.

During the period under consideration gross operating revenue was about $634,969 a month more than for same season of previous year. Operating expenses showed a monthly gain of $782,557, due principally to greater maintenance charges and transportation expenses.

The five months' report to the interstate commerce commission shows the following division between increase in maintenance and all other expenses compared to increase in gross: Gross income increased $3,692,766, all maintenance increased $2,454,726, all other expenses increased $1,574,548.

Another important point to be given consideration at this juncture is that the Northwestern is expending large sums for new equipment, the bills for January alone already amounting to $2,500,000. At least part of the sum will be deducted from the sum set aside for renewals as required by the interstate commerce commission rulings, and remainder will be charged to capital account.

Five months' income account shows after accrued preferred dividends of $746,500, a surplus for the common of $6,842,754, or 6.8 per cent compared with $7,315,695 in 1908, a decrease of $472,941, or 0.5 per cent.

THE GRAIN MARKET.

C. F. & G. W. Eddy, Inc., of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, received the following from their Chicago correspondent:

Wheat—The wheat market was dull and a little lower. This was done to cables which showed decline and to the heavy receipts in the Northwest. The Liverpool market declined on the larger world's exports than expected. The total as given up to Saturday night was nearly 2,000,000 bushels in excess of the previous week, due largely to an increase in the Russian shipments. The receipts of wheat in the Northwest were heavy, materially exceeding last year and the previous year, and there was a good increase in the receipts at Winnipeg.

Corn—The corn market was dull and barely steady. There was some pressure on the market with wheat and on the weather conditions which continued favorable for the moving of corn in the country. The Chicago receipts were about as expected. The official estimate that the Argentine corn crop was 32,000,000 bushels more than last year induced some selling.

Oats—There was a quiet and easier market in oats. There was some selling on fairly liberal receipts at the West and on the easier market in other grains.

DENVER GAS HAS MOST PROSPEROUS YEAR IN HISTORY

Net Earnings for Period Over 19 Per Cent — Company Has Had Steady Expansion in Past Eight Years.

OPERATING COSTS

The Denver Gas & Electric Company's returns for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1909, shows that that year was by far the best in the company's history, which has always been one of steady growth and expansion.

The net earnings after the payment of charges were equal to 19.19 per cent on the company's capitalization of $3,500,000. As the company pays but 6 per cent annually in dividends (½ per cent monthly) it will be seen that its financial position is a very strong one and that when the plan to increase the capitalization is eventually put into effect, there will be no difficulty in maintaining the 6 per cent rate on the new stock.

The net earnings of $668,543 showed an increase of $82,917 over the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1908, and were obtained after an increase in operating expenses oof $119,884 and in interest and taxes of $113,884 and in interest and taxes the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1909, will show:

	1909.	1908.	Inc.
Gross earnings	$2,439,885	$2,167,443	$272,442
Operating exp	1,357,306	1,243,422	113,884
Net	$1,082,570	$924,021	$158,558
Int. and taxes	414,036	338,395	75,641
Net to stock	$668,543	$588,626	$82,917

The above item of operating expenses is ample evidence of the efficient management under which the company is conducted. In fact, in all previous statements of the company for the last eight ycars, while an increase in gross is nearly always accompanied by an increase in operating expenses, the increase in the latter has been proportionately less, so that during this period there has always been an increase in the net.

In this connection it may be stated as a remarkable fact that not a month has passed during this period, dating from March, 1902, and including the panic period of 1907, that has not shown an increase both in the gross and the net earnings.

The Denver Gas & Electric, it is interesting to note, does not make annual reports as in the case of most corporations, but keeps its books month by month, compiling at the end of each month complete returns for the 12 months preceding.

Although these figures for every month since March, 1902, are available, space will permit the publication only of the following comparison, which illustrates the uninterrupted expansion of the company's earnings:

	Gross.	Net.
1909	$2,439,885	$1,082,570
1908	2,167,443	924,021
1907	1,965,802	784,553
1906	1,717,597	682,917
1905	1,504,792	610,697
1904	1,274,489	511,538
1903	1,055,456	456,486
1902	778,952	276,786

This steadily progressing increase, while due in large measure to the rapid growth and prosperity of the territory served by the company's properties, is also attributable to the policy of the management of financing for requirements far into the future. As has been stated, during the financial depression of 1907, the earnings of the company continued to show their regular increase. This was the result of the above policy.

The management had funds on hand during that period to go ahead fearlessly with improvements, extensions, and to otherwise build up the property whereby its earning power could be enhanced, where other companies had to curtail. As is well known to those familiar with its affairs, the company has created a mortgage under which $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 bonds now may be issued at any time.

The management is not in need of these funds at present and only a small portion of these bonds have thus far been used, a small block having been exchanged last summer in payment for a steam-heating plant. But it will thus be seen that the company can obtain funds on short notice for any contingency that may arise. It is not probable, however, that any further use of these bonds will be made for at least three years, when they will probably be employed for purchases of additional properties, concerning which the management has large plans in view.

The prospects for the coming year, according to an interest in the company, indicate the maintenance of the unbroken record of increasing earnings. The communities served are developing rapidly, and are generally prosperous.

GREAT NORTHERN PROSPECTS GOOD

NEW YORK—Based on three weeks' showing, Great Northern's January net will be $1,300,000 larger than for that month of 1909. In December, on the other hand, net suffered a loss of $420,000 from December, 1908. Last year expenses were so high in January that net was practically extinguished, there being left only $36,241 after taxes.

Net for the first seven months of 1909-10 is $3,730,000 larger than for that period of 1908-09. From February on the increases will be less in evidence, but barring unforeseen disturbances the year's net will exceed that for last year by considerably more than $5,000,000, or nearly 3 per cent on the stock.

STATE DEPOSITS TO BE LIMITED

NEW YORK—Comptroller Williams and State Treasurer Dunn propose to limit state deposits to banks whose surplus and undivided profits exceed 20 per cent of share capital, giving preference to banks offering surety company bonds and not considering private banks. MAYOR APPOINTS ARBOR DAY DATE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Arbor day in this city has been officially designated for Feb. 4. Mayor Callaghan in his proclamation calls upon all citizens to plant on this day trees, shrubs, vines and flowers. Not all the trees planted will be a matter of ornament and the fact that E. W. Knox, one of the largest nurserymen in the Southwest, has donated to each school a paper-shell pecan, has a strictly utilitarian aspect. The trees given are from three to five years old and of the best variety. It is intended to have them supply graftings for the trees to be grown by the school children from the nut. In most cases, however, the pecan will be relegated to the backyard and only ornamental trees will be planted on the sidewalks and lawns.

BIG COAL TRADE IN NEW MEXICO

WASHINGTON—J. E. Sheridan, United States mine inspector for New Mexico, reports to the United States geological survey that the coal-mining industry in New Mexico continued in 1909 the growth it had maintained during the previous decade.

Although the gross production—3,080,360 short tons—was the largest ever reported it did not tax the mines one half their capacity. The quantity used in operating the mines was 40,200 tons; the net tonnage shipped from the mines was 3,040,160 tons.

GREAT BRITAIN INDUSTRIALS

Profits Decreased During the Past Year, but Since First of January the Tendency Is Toward Improvement.

NEW YORK—Profits of industrial companies in Great Britain decreased materially during the last 12 months. The one comforting reflection is that the tendency has been steadily toward improvement since the beginning of 1910. The following clear, brief record from the London Economist is of real interest:

	Cos.	1909.	Decrease.
First quarter	254	£14,480,253	£1,901,169
Second quarter	238	13,042,912	915,767
Third quarter	119	7,001,721	591,720
Fourth quarter	164	8,810,182	*242,101
Total	775	£43,335,338	£3,256,515

*Increase.

This progress in the profits, though we do not wish to lay too much stress on it, does undoubtedly point to a general revival, and taken in conjunction with the banking, railway and foreign trade statistics, to which we have already referred, shows that British industry has been steadily gaining ground throughout the year.

The total capital of these 775 companies, apart from their debentures, is £624,368,000, and the year's profits work out at the rate of 7.4 per cent of this total, while the dividends declared are as follows:

Preferential capital.	Capital.	Dividend.	%
First quarter	£97,502,200	£3,876,500	4.0
Second quarter	55,898,400	2,711,100	4.9
Third quarter	48,903,360	1,953,500	4.0
Fourth quarter	25,005,600	1,282,100	5.1
Total	£227,459,500	£9,823,200	4.3
Ordinary capital.	Capital.	Dividend.	%
First quarter	£158,036,900	£7,752,638	4.9
Second quarter	91,914,900	7,937,097	8.6

Fourth quarter	61,975,200	5,201,124	8.4

What We Think of Books Sent Us For Review

"SHERIDAN. From New and Original Material; including a Manuscript Diary by Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire." By Walter Sichel. With illustrations. In two vols. London: Constable & Co. (Limited). 31s. 6d. net.

This is an age of summaries and condensations, of lightning sketches and brief biographies, of superficial learning and rapid forgetting, in which we get most of our information from posters and headlines; this being the case, one cannot help wondering whether anybody will ever find time to read through Mr. Sichel's book on Sheridan, with its over 1100 closely written pages, its copious notes and references, and its innumerable digressions.

If Mr. Sichel had not scattered his fire over such a very wide range, but had focused it more definitely on to his hero, one is inclined to think that his work would have gained considerably in general interest. From his elopement with the beautiful 16-year-old Miss Linley, to his last interview with the bailiff's officers, the life of Sheridan abounds in interesting situations quite apart from his parliamentary career; no doubt his services were invaluable to the Whigs at the end of the eighteenth century, but most readers are content to accept this as a fact without wading through all the political records of that period.

Mr. Sichel does not attempt to gloss over Sheridan's desultory ways, but shows plainly that his carelessness was not merely incurable, it was chonic. His letters hardly ever caught the post; important correspondence would be left unopened for years; he would not allow any one to touch his papers, and confusion reigned over all his affairs. "Better to pay the bill than look for the receipt" is a line from his unfinished comedy "Affectation," which aptly describes his state of mind. His first wife called his pocket "the bottomless pit," because anything that once went in was never seen again. His power of getting money even out of his creditors was truly remarkable. "He plagued both his wives to distraction," says Mr. Sichel, and we can well believe it. But all these failings seem but to bring into stronger light his many redeeming qualities, and Mr. Sichel, who is nothing if not impartial, lays equal stress on the other side of his hero's character, and gives us a satisfying description of Sheridan as the affectionate husband, the honest politician and the faithful friend. The book is profusely illustrated, and is lightened by many amusing anecdotes, and bright examples of his ready wit.

Sheridan is one of the chief representatives of the Georgian age. In his own day he was celebrated as politician, as orator, as playwright, as theatrical manager, as wit and as spendthrift. To this generation he is famous only as the author of three of the best comedies ever written, namely, the "Rivals," the "School for Scandal" and the "Critic."

"CHRISTIAN SCIENCE AS A RELIGIOUS BELIEF AND A THERAPEUTIC AGENT." By B. O. Flower. Boston, Mass.: Twentieth Century Company.

A book defending Christian Science, written by a non-member of its church fellowship—an author of international repute who admits that in previous years he was prejudiced—is a refreshing sign of the times.

The authorized literature of Christian Science, however, adequately sets forth its worth to humanity, with clear, complete and convincing proofs of its healing power. It would seem, therefore, in view of this vast expository, that the subject of the Christ healing—the advantages of the religion of Christ Jesus, discovered and restated by Mary Baker Eddy—needs no supplementation. A genuine knowledge is to be had from its source, for "where the fountain is pure there the thirsty come to drink."

Commendation of a religion which is raising millions of people from sickness to health and from sin to better living, however, is quite another thing. There are yet to be torn down in popular thought many misconceptions about and prejudices against this helpful and wholesome religion, and kindly acknowledgment must be made to those individuals who, not having touched "the healing hem of his garment," still declare their faith in the Man of Galilee and recommend that faith to others. Indeed the prosperity of the Christian Science movement is furthered in no small measure by loving friends whose words and works, in advance of their professions, are often in conformity to very high ideals.

B. O. Flower, who is now editor of the Twentieth Century Magazine, was for years the editor of the Arena, which he established in 1889 and by which he served the cause of justice, helped to right many wrongs and was ever ready to defend the weak and oppressed of every land. It was his contribution in that magazine for November, 1908, on "Christian Science and Organic Disease" that brought forth many favorable letters and inquiries, indicating the widespread interest on the part of non-Scientists in the subject under discussion. Some had previously believed that Christian Science might cure functional troubles but doubted its effectiveness in so-called organic cases. Mr. Flower's article satisfied many that the success of Christian Science treatment was not limited even by the most hopeless diagnosis, and that thousands of cures are being effected today, even as in Jesus' time, by spiritual means alone. The present volume is the outgrowth of Mr. Flower's earlier experience.

It is in this spirit of liberality, to quote Mr. Flower— "I am a lover of fair play and of all things that make for a nobler and purer life and the true happiness of the people"—that the book is written. Four chapters constitute the volume, a white cloth with silver-lettered cover, and these chapters deal with the three phases of Christian Science teaching and practise in which the general public is most deeply interested: (1) Its religious precepts as reflecting or carrying forward the teaching of the Founder of Christianity; (2) the influence of its teachings on the lives of its adherents; (3) Christian Science as a therapeutic agent, especially in reference to the cure of organic disease.

The first chapter of the book is a disapproving analysis of the clergy's attitude toward Christian Science. The second chapter is devoted to what the author regards as "the master note in the message of Christian Science"—moral idealism. Regarding this he says:

"Moral idealism nourishes the soul upon the eternal spiritual verities. It weaves into the web and woof of life honor, integrity of thought and purpose, a passion for truth, and an ever-broadening love. In a word, it speaks to the children of men, awakening them from their absorption in fleeting sense perceptions to a realization of the eternal spiritual verities, Truth, Beauty and Goodness."

Chapter III., entitled "Christian Science and Organic Disease," endeavors to explain the hostility of a portion of the medical fraternity toward Christian Science and cites several instances of such healings of organic disease as should convince even the most skeptical. Chapter IV. shows that the cures performed by Christian Science treatment are not the result of suggestion or hypnotism, and this proof is reenforced by additional evidence of healing cases which had been given up by the physicians.

Mr. Flower's book is a useful book, especially for the individual struggling with prejudice or doubt, to whom it may come from an apparently disinterested source, as a welcome beacon light to better things. Christian Scientists will thank Mr. Flower for his generosity, courage and good-will.

LONDON LITERARY NOTES.

LONDON—Mr. Punch amuses himself and the public from time to time by bringing into somewhat lurid prominence the unfortunate printer's errors which will sometimes creep into even the best regulated of his contemporaries. How he manages to pounce on them with such unerring promptitude is quite a mystery to us, as we never see them. Here are a few of his latest, culled from important newspapers whose names are not omitted, and grouped under the heading, "The Perils of Dictation": "The captain and his boat's screw were picked up by a passing vessel." "Green and Roman children had none of the excruciatingly ingenious toys which are inflicted on our younglings" (safe to be born in the purple, comments the sage). "He was deliberate, lucid, direct, concise and he roused the audience to a great pitch of civilization."

It is now 10 years since Gabriele d'Annunzio published his last novel. A new one, however, announced for Jan. 10, deals with aviation and aviators. The novelist has some personal experience of the art, having made several ascents with Mr. Curtiss at the Brescia meeting.

* * *

Sir E. Ray Lankester is bringing out, through Messrs. Methuen, a volume of short studies in the domain of natural science. He calls the book "Studies From an Easy Chair." It is to be illustrated.

G. K. Chesterton is to be the writer of the next volume in the well-known Men of Letters series. His subject, an attractive one, is the poet, "Tom Hood."

* * *

The revival of the essay, by the way, is an interesting development of recent English authorship. There are quite a number of pleasant essayists who contribute largely to the amenities of the judicious reader's life.

The reason for this development is fairly obvious. How many people nowadays can give the time to the study of the better class of literature or the more serious topics? The knowledge that there is no hope of finding time to finish a book may often be in itself a deterrent to the commencing of it. Whereas, taken in tabloid or essay form, the taste for serious literature may be indulged in even at uncertain intervals without loss, and possibly even some gain.

* * *

Literary notes in the form of announcements of forthcoming books are no mere product of recent years, as is sometimes supposed.

A hundred years ago we find them in existence, and although not so numerous as they are today, they lack nothing in point of interest.

Here is a "note" from the Scots Magazine for January, 1810: "Mr. Scott has in the press a new poem, entitled 'The Lady of the Lake.' It will be published in quarto'." Well, this is a cold enough statement, but when the edition appeared in May the 2050 copies of which it was composed went off with extraordinary rapidity and four editions quickly followed.

Messrs. Macmillan's announcements for this year include "Tennyson as a Student and Poet of Nature," by Sir Norman Lockyer and Winifred F. Lockyer; "Accidents of an Antiquary's Life," by D. G. Hogarth; "Shakespeare's Roman Plays and Their Background," by Prof. M. W. McCallum; "The Law and the Prophets, or the Revelation of Jehovah in Hebrew History From the Earliest Times to the Capture of Jerusalem by Titus," translated and adapted by Clement du Pontet from the work entitled "Jehovah" by Professor Westphal. Also Prof. Silvanus Thompson's "Life of Lord Kelvin," which, like several of the foregoing works, was held over from the autumn. Other new books which we have announced and hear well spoken of are "The Letters of John Stuart Mill," edited with an introduction by Hugh Elliott, with portraits and illustrations (Longmans). The publication of these letters, covering the period from 1829 to 1873, has been long delayed, and will be a literary event of importance.

"Highways and Byways in Buckinghamshire," by Clement K. Shorter (Macmillan). Buckinghamshire can boast a wealth of literary associations with such places within its boundaries as Chalfont St. Giles, with its memories of Milton; Gregories, the home of Burke; Stoke Poges, the scene of Gray's immortal elegy, and Olney, with which Cowper's name is inseparably linked.

Singers, Recitals and Concerts

SYMPHONY CONCERT.

MR. FIEDLER'S fourteenth program was changed a few days before the concert; and, while the most important number, Cesar Franck's symphony in D minor, was retained, the general spirit of Saturday evening's performance was without question different from what it would have been if in the first half of the program the Franck symphony had been associated with Beethoven's fugue for string orchestra instead of with Schumann's "Genoveva" overture, and if in the second half of the program Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" music had been associated with the new symphonic poem of Sibelius, "Night Ride and Sunrise," instead of with two other Wagner numbers.

Evidently Mr. Fiedler aimed originally at a varied program, aimed in the first place to put Franck's somber pondering in contrast with Beethoven's energetic thinking, and aimed in the second place to put the Sibelius symphonic style of composition in contrast with the Wagner dramatic style. The change of plan, accounted for in part by the failure of the publisher to provide Mr. Fiedler's men with the Beethoven music in season for rehearsal, made likeness instead of unlikeness of style and of mood the rule in each of the two program divisions.

The Schumann of the "Genoveva" overture was the romantic and introspective Schumann of the piano pieces, controlling the orchestral medium of expression better, if Mr. Fiedler's matter-of-fact reading of the work is fair to judge by, than he controls it in his symphonies. Franck, too, was introspective in his D minor symphony, and Mr. Fiedler made it his chief task of the evening to put his audience on terms of intimate understanding with this work and to disclose to them the composer's inmost purposes. The symphony is not one of unfolding ideas, because the strict formulas of structure to which the composer confined himself did not permit him to declare his thoughts with complete freedom. If he had chosen to write a symphonic poem instead of an old-fashioned symphony, his work would have been more illuminatingly expressive of himself; for he is constantly struggling to say what the symphonic formulas will not allow him to say. And yet Franck by sheer titanic strength won his battle with the formulas; he succeeded in making them do things which they are not rationally capable of doing. But the victory was not all with the composer. He wrote his symphony, but after all it is a work of a single mood and not one of a variety of related moods, as a symphony ought to be; and it turns out in the end to be in spirit a symphonic poem, even if it is outwardly a symphony.

The audience gave Mr. Fiedler their warmest appreciation of his conducting the Cesar Franck work; they recalled him after he left the platform and they were not satisfied until he called on his men to stand and join in acknowledging the applause.

The interest of the Wagner music was in the "Siegfried" forest music and in the overture to "The Flying Dutchman." The "Tristan" music had not the charm that Mr. Fiedler gave it last year. It is not necessary to compare Mr. Toscanini's conducting of the prelude at the performance of the opera in Boston a few weeks ago with Mr. Fiedler's performance of it at this concert, any further than to say that Mr. Toscanini's crescendo was something to remember for a lifetime and that Mr. Fiedler's crescendo was hardly discoverable.

The program of the concert was as follows: Schumann, overture to "Genoveva," op. 81; Franck, Symphony in Dnunor; Wagner, Prelude and Love-D minor; Wagner, Prelude and Love-and stir of the forest, from "Siegfried," act 2; overture to "The Flying Dutchman."

SPRING OPERA SEASON.

The week after the Boston opera season ends, Oscar Hammerstein's Manhattan opera company will come to the Boston theater for a two weeks' engagement, and at the same time the Metropolitan opera company will come to the Boston opera house for a second engagement of one week. Both of the New York organizations will begin their seasons on Monday evening, March 28; the Manhattan company in the fortnight of their stay will give at least 14 performances, the Metropolitan company in the week of their stay will give six performances.

Mr. Hammerstein announces provisionally that the Manhattan singers will present here six operas with Miss Mary Garden in the leading soprano roles, Massenet's "Thais" and "The Juggler," which were given here last season, Massenet's "Griselidis" and "Sapho," new to Boston; Charpentier's "Louise" of last year's repertory and Gounod's "Faust." The Tetrazzini operas will be "Lucia" and "Traviata," with the Irish tenor, McCormack, singing the roles that Constantino sang a year ago; and the short opera, "Daughter of the Regiment," also with McCormack for the tenor. The operas in which the talents of the baritone Renaud will have scope are, besides "Thais," Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffmann" and Mozart's "Don Giovanni;" but the production of these seems likely to depend on the interest the public shows in them at the advance subscription sale. The contralto, Mme. Gerville-Reache, will appear again in Massenet's "La Navarraise," the short opera which with "The Daughter of the Regiment" will make a double bill.

The new Massenet work, "Herodiade," may be included in the repertory; and the "Elektra" of Richard Strauss, the one-act piece which has its first American performance at the Manhattan opera house, with double prices, Tuesday evening, Feb. 1, is definitely promised for Boston.

NOTES.

Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, the Boston composer, announces that at her recital in Steinert hall Thursday evening, Feb. 10, she will perform with the assistance of Carl Faelten a new, unpublished work of hers, "Iverniana," which is a suite for two pianos in four movements: Lento, allegro, adagio and vivace con fuga. Among her solo numbers she announces two other works of local interest, one by the former professor of music at Harvard College, and one by the present conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; namely: Nocturne in B flat major, op. 45, John Knowles Paine; waltz, op. 6, No. 2, Max Fiedler. Mrs. Beach gives progressive France representation in Debussy's Toccata; progressive Germany in Reger's "From My Journal," D major, op. 82, No. 9. Her remaining solo numbers are Bach's English suite in A minor; Cesar Franck's prelude, aria and finale; Gottschalk's "Solitude," op. 65; Godard's "Indienne"; Chopin's Mazurkas in A flat major, op. 59, No. 2, and in A minor, op. posth., and two etudes in A flat major, op. posth., and in C minor, op. 25, No. 121.

The American Music Society, which aims to bring to public notice serious and interesting works by American composers and to stimulate the study of native folk music, adopted at the beginning of the present season a new policy, under which its membership has doubled.

NEW YORK MUSIC LETTER

NEW YORK—Oscar Hammerstein has announced some of his next season's plans. He says that unless a guarantee fund is raised in Philadelphia he will probably abandon opera in that field, but that he will increase instead of decreasing his opera performances in New York, adding Wednesday afternoon and Thursday evening to the present schedule. He also announces a number of engagements and renewals of engagements. Among the reengagements are those of Maurice Renaud, Miss Mary Garden, Mlle. Lina Cavalieri, Charles Dalmores and Charles Gilibert.

New contracts have also been made, covering periods of from three to five years, with Mmes. Tetrazzini, Mlles. Gerville-Reache, D'Alvarez, Mazarin, Trentini, Duchene and MM. McCormack, Gilibert, Orville Harrold, the new American tenor; Sammarco, Polese, Devries, Huberdeau, Vallier and many others. By cable Carola Esimoff, a Greek dramatic soprano, now attracting attention in Constantinople, has been secured for next season.

"With the opening of the Pennsylvania tunnel in July, says Mr. Hammerstein, "the Manhattan opera house, situated almost opposite the greatest railroad center of the world, will become the most central theatrical structure in this city, receiving an additional clientele from the nearby cities of Newark, Elizabeth, Trenton, etc. The enormous theatrical structure atop the Manhattan opera house is nearing its completion, the steel and brick construction is fully finished and the interior work has been begun.

"During the summer, opening in May, it will be used as a mammoth roof garden. In the winter operatic performances of a lighter character in English will be given every night, undisturbed by the grand opera performances below.

"Structural changes will be made during the summer in the opera house proper."

* * *

It is reported that Jules Massenet, whose works have been produced here so liberally of late, is likely to visit America next season. If he comes it will be to assist in the operatic production of some of his works. Of late years many composers of foreign countries have come over, among them Puccini, Humperdinck, Mascagni, Leoncavallo, Saint-Saens and Rachmaninoff.

Charles M. Loeffler of Boston was the guest of Walter Damrosch Sunday afternoon at the New theater, when the New York Symphony Orchestra presented Loeffler's "Pagan Poem," based on the eighth "Eclogue" of Vergil. The assisting pianist was Heinrich Gebhard.

Dvorak's symphony "From the New World," led Mr. Damrosch's program and the concluding number was a "Ballade" by Liadow, performed for the first time.

* * *

Sunday's special Philharmonic matinee in Carnegie hall presented Grieg's "Hall of the Mountain King," Beethoven's overture to "Coriolanus," Schumann's A minor piano concerto, with Josef Weiss, and the "Fantastic" symphony of Berlioz.

At the regular Philharmonic concerts on Thursday and Friday, Mr. Mahler has an overture to "Christelflein," Pfitzner; Beethoven's aria, "Ah! Perfido," and songs of Strauss, Wolf and Fiedler for Tilly Koenen, and the fourth symphony of Schumann.

* * *

Sergei Rachmaninoff appeared the other evening before a New York audience in the triple role of composer, conductor and pianist. His symphonic poem, "Toteninsel," has already been performed in Boston. In New York it was received in a most favorable manner. There is no doubt that it is a masterpiece of orchestral tone painting. It is only criticized for its length and the uncertainess of its melodic contour.

* * *

The sumptuous revival of Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah" at the Manhattan opera house was a brilliant success. Mr. Hammerstein may congratulate himself at having made so popular an opera out of a work much better suited to oratorio stage.

* * *

The Metropolitan's revival of Donizetti's popular "L' Elisir d'Amore," even without the familiar participation of Mme. Sembrich, struck a happy note in the tuneful and amusing field last week, while the prilliant presentation of Wagner's "Ring" cycle gave New York operagoers all of the heavier kind of operatic diet that could be wished. It is heartily to be regretted that the "Ring" cannot be repeated in an evening cycle. This week the Metropolitan will present two novelties, Flotow's "Stradella" on Friday and Bayer's divertissement "Vienna Waltzes" on Wednesday, calculated in some measure to offset the effect of Tuesday's performance of Strauss' much heralded "Elektra" at the other house.

The Boston center of the society will give a concert in Jordan hall Tuesday evening, Feb. 8, presenting John Beach's "In a Gondola," Edgar Stillman-Kelley's piano quintet, op. 20; five American songs, and Howard Brockway's suite for 'cello and piano. The artists announced to perform the program are Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child, Harry Barnhart, John Beach, Arthur Shepherd, Howard Brockway, Alwyn Schroeder and the Hoffman quartet. Mr. Stillman-Kelley's quintet, new to Boston, has four movements, in outline as follows: Allegro, lento, scherzando and moderato.

* * *

William Howard, violinist, the leader of the municipal orchestra, will be the instrumental soloist at the next concert of the music department of the city of Boston, Wednesday evening, Feb. 2, at the Girls Latin school; Miss Charlotte B. McLaughlin, soprano, will be the singer. Prof. Louis C. Elson will lecture on the program, which will be as follows:

Overture, "If I Were King," Adam; theme and variations from string quartet, op. 18, No. 5, Beethoven; recitative and aria from "The Queen of Sheba," Gounod, Miss McLaughin; selection from "La Traviata," Verdi; violin solo, gypsy dances, Nachez, Mr. Howard; waltz, "Un Petit Rien," C. Bohm; song, "The Year's at the Spring," Mrs. Beach, Miss McLaughlin; Spanish dance, Moszkowski.

Ernest Hutcheson in his lecture-recital at Steinert hall March 8, will discuss "Elektra," both the drama of von Hofmannsthal and the music of Richard Strauss.

* * *

Felix Fox will present several of his pupils in a piano recital at Steinert hall Feb. 2.

Mrs. Helen Hopekirk announces that she will give a piano recital in Steinert hall Feb. 22.

Teaching English Literature to the Young

ANDREW LANG IS UNABLE TO UNDERSTAND HOW SUCH AN ENORMOUS SUBJECT CAN BE TAUGHT.

NOTE—Andrew Lang, one of the foremost literary men of England, has written more than 50 books since he published "Ballads and Lyrics of Old France" in 1872. He was made a Fellow of the Royal British Academy in 1906.

IN the course of a long and singularly adventurous career I have more than once been invited to teach English literature to the young, writes Andrew Lang in the London Morning Post. The professorial chair, however, seemed too like the Siege Perilous at King Arthur's Round Table—if, indeed, there really was such a chair.

I have never been able to understand how such an enormous and exhausting subject as English literature can be taught, and examination of educational books on the topic only increases my bewilderment. They contain an extraordinary mass of miscellaneous information, names of authors and books and dates, which is not in general request, indeed is "caviare to the general," and can only be retained in the memory of a few professional students.

From "Beowulf," about 1200 years ago, to Chaucer, there is not perhaps one author whom anybody reads "for human pleasure," meaning by "anybody" any member of the general public. By a mere freak of taste I can read all that I can get of primitive poetry, from the love songs of Red Indians and Kanekas (which are just like any other love songs) and the laments of pensive Australian black fellows (full of fine "Celtic magic"), to the songs of the Finns and the prehistoric Teutonic epics.

All these are more attractive to me than artificial epics, like the "Aeneid," which, with its many merits, is still an anachronism, a late imitation of the genuine article. But this taste is a personal freak, as it were, and I find enthusiastic Irish admirers of ancient Celtic romance who have not so much as opened the "Tain Bo Cualgne," nor perused the story of the sorrows of that noble gentleman, Diarmaid, and of Grainne. As some one says about the French, these enthusiasts have not la tete epique, and if French youth is brought up on the "Henriade" it is no wonder that they do not like it.

Yet our unfortunate young people are launched on their English literature with "Beowulf," and if they are to learn the grammar of early English, and to take part in the furious war over the prosody, that is all very proper. They might learn Greek with no more trouble, and there is a million times more and better literature in Greek than in Anglo-Saxon. I am not blaming the Anglo-Saxons. They had not a language so musical and refined as the Greeks. If the young pupil survives through a thousand years of the history of English literature, as he hews his weary way through the early Elizabethan dramatists, he will encounter Thomas Nashe, that "bronzed . . . gentleman of the press." Nashe speaks thus freely concerning dogs:

To come to speech, they have it questionless.
Although we understand them not so well.
They bark as good old Saxon as may be.

It is possible for boys and girls to learn to bark good old Saxon, but they, with science and other studies occupying their time, will not adavnce as far even as Nashe's ill-contented day. And I cannot agree with the American professor of English literature, who says that there are as many noble and valuable works for human entertainment and instruction in Anglo-Saxon as in the language of the ancient Romans. Vous etes orfevre, Monsieur Josse, you are a professor of Anglo-Saxon, and you immensely overestimate the value of your wares. * * * Indeed, till we reach Chaucer there is no English poet who is freely read for pleasure, and I doubt if he is really much read; the spelling repels a public which found no such difficulty in Artemus Ward or American novels in dialect.

Boys and girls will not, very naturally, take pleasure in the "Ormulum," or the "Ancren Riwle," or even in Layamon his "Brute" or the gigantic "Cursor Mundi," I cannot understand why they should be expected to commit to memory the names and dates of the authors of these treatises, and of the authors of romances that "exhaust time and encroach on eternity," and are not read; and all the controversy of conjectures about "Huchown," whether he was English or Scots, and whether he did or did not write as much of medieval as Bacon, according to our quaint fanatics, wrote of Elizabethan and post-Elizabethan literature. Huchown's is not tonic and nutritive literature, and is not entertaining work. People do not convass Huchown in literary conversations. No man or woman is expected, by public opinion, to quote and discuss this member of the "Awle Ryale," whatever that Awle may have been, which nobody knows.

It is said that the Italians, a polite people, are about to thrust Latin out of the curriculum of their public education. Their exquisite reason is that "Latin is useless," but can Latin, can Greek, can anything in the world be more totally "useless" than early English literature? This is indeed impossible, and friends of the Modern Side had better mark it and be up and doing. You cannot ever get the enormous majority of the books in early English literature except in great public libraries and in the publications of learned societies, and when you have got them as a rule you must cut the leaves open. Now, Latin and Greek books are common and cheap and accessible—and worth reading. Early English books continue to be rare and hard for the general reader to obtain till you arrive at Spenser. They also continue to be difficult and unremunerative reading; only valuable to people who wish to trace the wearily slow evolution of poetry and the drama. Tusser, Turberville, Churchyard, Whetstone, Googe, they are the very vanity of inanity. If they had not lived when they did live, if they had been no more readable than they are in any recent age, nobody would be asked to smatter their names and dates and the names of their dull doings. The world has willingly let them pass on, and wherefore should schoolmasters keep them in a state of artificial vitality?

For the time spent on the dramatists who preluded to Shakespeare (I mean the time spent by schoolboys and schoolgirls) I leave my malison on Charles Lamb. He began it! By a most unfortunate kindness Mr. Garrick bequeathed a huge collection of old plays to the British Museum. "Imagine the luxury to one like me," says Lamb, "who, above every other form of poetry, have ever preferred the dramatic, of sitting in the princely chambers, for such they are, of poor condemned Montagu House and culling at will the flower of some thousand dramas." Lamb had a natural taste for the thousand (happily other thousands have gone to join the lost plays of the great Athenians). He culled the flowers, and published them in a delightful volume, and he never dreamed that schoolboys would be harried with the names and dates of the men who grew some flowers in a vast wilderness of weeds. The easy-going world had been quite satisfied with Shakespeare, and did not trouble itself with the literary quarrels of Harvey and Nashe, and Greene, and Kyd (so cruelly misnamed), and Peele, and Lodge, and the rest of that shd, short-lived company.

TEACHING ENGLISH LITERATURE TO THE YOUTHFUL READER

Lamb opened the door, and though editions of these men's complete works are still very scarce, education demands that the young shall be examined in what Greene said about "Shake-Scene," and what Nashe said about Greene, and Chettle said about all of them, and as to what Dekker and Marston did to annoy Ben Jonson, and how he replied, and all the rest of it. Now, a few of the "flowers" of Greene and Lyly and Lodge might be read with pleasure and profit. . . . An American author of a school history of our literature exhibits but 19 of our greatest authors—from Chaucer to Tennyson—at full length; a few of the rest receive small paragraphs; and youth, which has no use for decadents, does not tax his memory with hundreds of names of authors whose books he will never open. A few brief sips from Shakespeare and the rest of the greater men are sparingly administered in an appendix, with a monstrous deal of notes, and Tom Sawyer or Huckleberry Finn may pursue his studies further. . . . At all events, he has not been bored with Chettle and Huchown.

MR. TAFT SUCCEEDS IN SCATTERING 'BACK FROM ELBA' FORCES

WASHINGTON — President Taft's special messages, in which he not only shows himself a supporter of the Roosevelt policies, but indicates a desire to have Congress carry those policies forward to a logical conclusion, has disproved all the claims of the "back from Elba" people, leaving them scarcely any ground on which to stand; they find their numbers dwindling and their influence declining. It is now being confidently predicted that by the time the distinguished hunter returns from Africa the club will be little more than a memory.

Folks are now beginning to recall that the club was founded on an erroneous assumption, namely, that Mr. Taft was a reactionary, and was to play into the hands of the people and of the forces which Colonel Roosevelt had condemned; and that the entire "back from Elba" program was conceived without a proper appreciation of Colonel Roosevelt's character.

Of course, President Taft, in the last analysis, will stand or fall by his own record. Those who like his record will favor him for a second term, while those who oppose his record will want another candidate. But however the matter may work out at the convention of 1912, it is now being recognized that if there is a single man in the country of whose support he should feel assured at this moment, that man is Theodore Roosevelt.

Thus does the "back from Elba" club, after its tiny strut across the political stage, seem to be at the point of retirement. Instead of playing seven parts it has played but one and that one badly.

During the campaign of 1908, Mr. Roosevelt wrote a long letter to Conrad Kohrs of Helena, Mont., which embraced a eulogy of Mr. Taft such as no public man in this country has written about another for many years. The letter was a remarkable document—remarkable not only for the cogency of the reasoning employed, and for the enthusiasm displayed by the writer over the Taft candidacy, but also for the glowing tributes it paid Mr. Taft.

Men who have recently read the letter to Conrad Kohrs in its entirety—for it would fill almost three newspaper columns—are saying to each other that it reveals Colonel Roosevelt in the light of a great prophet, for in every case the Taft record thus far is justifying everything that Mr. Roosevelt then said.

NEW INNES COMET IS DISAPPEARING

The new Innes comet is rapidly growing fainter, and within two weeks or less it will probably be invisible to the naked eye.

Halley's comet is due to shine out in about two months. At last accounts it was visible with a three-inch glass, and the astronomers at the Harvard observatory estimate its brilliancy at about the eighth magnitude. There is no means of knowing how bright it will be at its best, for on each trip around the sun it shows diminished intensity

Hints That May Help.

GIRL'S TUCKED DRESS

THE long-waisted frock is always a becoming one for the younger girls. This one combines that feature with an exceptionally pretty arrangement of the tucks and is just as dainty as well can be. Sheer white lawn with trimming of embroidery makes the one illustrated, but it will be found adapted to all that can be made in lingerie style and the list includes everything that is soft enough to be laid in fine tucks. The skirt is straight and consequently simple and well adapted to laundering. It and the waist are joined by means of a belt. Over this belt can be arranged a draped belt or a sash or any finish that may be liked. Either short or three quarter sleeves can be used, but the snort ones are always pretty and attractive on dimpled childish arms.

6573. Girl's Tucked Dress. 6 to 12 years.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (10 years) is 4½ yards 24 or 27, 3⅝ yards 32 or 2½ yards 44 inches wide with 2¾ yards of wide insertion, 3¼ yards of narrow.

The pattern (6573) may be had in sizes for girls from 6 to 12 years of age at any May Manton agency, or will be mailed on receipt of price (10c.). Address May Manton Pattern Co., 132 East Twenty-third street, New York, or Masonic Temple, Chicago.

SOME TRIED RECIPES.

CUCUMBER AND ONION SALAD.

Peel a large Spanish onion and let it stand in ice-water for half an hour. Slice thin and again cover with ice-water to which lemon juice has been added and let stand for half an hour. Drain, cut the onion up a little, add 1 cucumber peeled and sliced thin and dress with oil, vinegar, salt and pepper. Serve with or without lettuce.

LUNCHEON DISH.

For luncheon a savory dish is tomatoes stuffed with sausage meat. They are improved by pouring beef stock over them before baking. The heart of the tomatoes that was removed to give place to the sausage meat may be mixed with the stock or laid aside to be used in a dish of stewed tomatoes or in a salad. A few drops of lemon juice may be added to the stock to give zest to the filling, but if the tomato pulp is used it will not be necessary.—New York Tribune.

OVER-SALTED DISHES.

If a dish, soup, vegetable or sauce should happen to be over-salted, dust in a little coarse brown sugar and the dish will become palatable. Brown sugar is an antidote for salt. If you want to rush the contents of the inner vessel of your double boiler, add some salt—a half teacupful to two quarts of water—to the water in the outer vessel. Boiling salty water generates a strong heat very quickly.—Exchange.

MISSES' FIVE GORED SKIRT.

The plain gored skirt is one that is always needed. This model is designed for young girls and will be found appropriate for all the skirting materials that are adapted to so simple a style. In this case it is made from a novelty wool material, finished only with a stitched hem, but it is just as desirable for linen, cotton poplin and other washable materials as it is for wool and it can be braided or banded or trimmed in any way that may suit the fancy. Soutache continues all its vogue and soutache applied over a panel design is exceedingly handsome on such a plain skirt, but the simple one illustrated is in every way correct and adapted to general use.

The quantity of material required for the 16-year size is 5¾ yards 27, 5⅜ yards 32, 3⅜ yards 44 or 3¼ yards 52 inches wide if material has figure or nap; 4⅝ yards 27, 4¼ yards 32, 2⅝ yards 44 or 2¼ yards 52 inches wide if material has neither figure nor nap. The pattern (6570) may be had in sizes for girls of 14 and 16 years of age. Address as under No. 6573.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

The hotels known as the Putman and the Prescott at 18 to 28 Cazenove street, near the Back Bay railroad station, have been sold by Lewis P. Kaufman to Allen L. Comstock, the consideration being in excess of the total tax valuation of $40,200. The buildings are four-story ones and there are 4812 square feet of land rated by the assessors as worth $15,800.

Several parcels of South End property conveyed by Allen L. Comstock to Lewis P. Kaufman are numbered 8 to 14 East Lenox street, junction of and 1 to 8 Sandford street, the whole being assessed on $23,900. Mr. Kaufman has resold to M. W. Pietchel et al. There are 12 brick houses and 6400 square feet of land.

The final papers have been recorded in the sale of the property at 92 Charles street, between Pinckney and Mt. Vernon streets, by R. G. Fessenden, trustee, to the Massachusetts General Hospital. The parcel consists of a large four-story structure and 2763 square feet of land, and it is assessed for $17,500, of which $8300 is on the land. The purchaser will use the property for an additional nurses dormitory. J. Murray Howe was the broker in the transaction.

CAMBRIDGE TRANSACTIONS.

Wilfred Barnes, 53 State street, reports the sale to Joseph Caunt & Co., shoe manufacturers, of Lynn, of a lot of 42,000 square feet of land in Cambridge, at the corner of Amherst and Carleton streets, near the world's shoe and leather fair building. A building of brick or reenforced concrete, six stories high, having approximately 60,000 square feet of floor area, will be erected in the near future, leaving sufficient land area to double the manufacturing floor area later on.

As soon as the building is completed the extensive business of the Caunt company, employing some 500 operatives, will, it is understood, be moved from Lynn to the new location.

Another sale of vacant land in Cambridge is that of 20,000 square feet owned by the Woodbridge estate at the junction of Massachusetts avenue and Woodbridge street, the purchaser being Max Keezer, who will improve with a block of stores and apartments with private house for his own occupancy. The taxed value is $8500, but the price paid was above this figure. The title is given by Prof. Warren I. Woodbridge of Tufts college and J. Henry Fletcher, administrator of the Woodbridge estate. Fallon & Haverty were the brokers in the sale.

F. W. Morris & Co. announce the sale of Park chambers, a 12-family cement apartment block, at the junction of Magazine and Lake streets, Cambridge. Dr. George L. True gives title to Richard S. Sanders of Providence. George H. Mahady represented Mr. Sanders. In connection with this transaction Mr. Sanders deeds to Dr. True a lot of 5600 feet of land on Massachusetts avenue, next to the corner of Sacramento street, being part of the Bishop estate.

ROXBURY ACTIVITY.

The office of George T. MacLellan reports the sale of a block of four three-apartment frame houses numbered 2 to 8 Riverside street, and one three-apartment frame house, 968 Columbus avenue, Roxbury. The total rating is $14,400. The grantor was Annie C. McNeil and the buyer Bridget Ballou. The total land area is 6840 square feet. The purchase price was above the total assessment.

Warren F. Freeman of the Kimball building reports the opening of Richards street through the Richards estate from Center street and parallel with Park street, Highland station, West Roxbury, and the placing on the market of 32 desirable building lots containing from 5500 to 8500 feet each, restricted to single family houses. This is without question the most desirable vacant land at Highland station, being high and sightly, less than three minutes from both steam and electric cars and surrounded by high class homes. There have been a number of lots sold the past week, one of which is No. 22, containing 5602 square feet, to E. A. Merriam, Esq., of Boston, who will build for occupancy in the spring.

NEWTON LEASE.

Papers have passed whereby the dyehouse of the Nonantum worsted works property in Chapel street, Newton, has been leased by George F. Hall, trustee to Hopewell brothers, who will fit up the premises at once and occupy for the manufacturing of specialties for the automobile trade, in which they are now interested. The building is a brick structure nearly 200 feet long. The Factory Exchange negotiated the lease.

ROSLINDALE—ARLINGTON.

Warren F. Freeman of the Kimball Building reports the sale of lot No. 2 in South street, between Fairview and Tappan streets, Roslindale, to John D. Morrison, who will build at once. The plot contains 4200 square feet and is assessed for $1000. Robert Faulkner is the grantor.

Atwood & Pattee, Niles' Building, report that they have just sold a lot of land containing about 8500 square feet, located in Lincoln street, Arlington. John W. Reid of Philadelphia conveys to Robert F. Sanderson of Brighton. The lot is assessed for $6500, but the consideration of purchase was nearly twice that amount.

MILFORD, N. H., FARM SOLD.

P. F. Leland has sold for William E. Wyman, his stock and grass farm on the Wilton road, Milford, New Hampshire, to W. N. Prout of Portland, Me. There are 170 acres of splendid land, cutting more than 100 tons of English hay and keeping a large stock of cattle. There is an apple orchard and considerable timber. The house is large, of the old colonial style, and beautifully shaded. A large herd of cattle, and all other personal property, was included in the sale. This is probably the largest and most important sale of farm property in southern New Hampshire this season. The purchaser has already taken possession.

ON THE TURNPIKE, WRENTHAM.

H. M. Snow of Watertown has transferred to A. B. Murphy of Boston, his summer home on the old Boston and Providence turnpike in Wrentham. There are 60 acres of land, much of it in growing timber, and a charming old-style country house of 12 rooms, besides the usual outbuildings. The purchaser is making extensive alterations, and expects to occupy it the year round. P. F. Leland was the broker.

OPENS HIS OWN OFFICE.

Clarence Bangs, for the past seven years connected with Coffin & Taber, 24 Milk street, has gone into business for himself. He has opened an office at 10 Postoffice square.

ORDERS OFFICERS TO ATTEND TO REPAIRS

Naval officers in a general order received at the Boston navy yard are impressed with the necessity of looking after the machinery of vessels to prevent deterioration, which calls for extensive repairs. The order states that altogether too much overhauling and repairing has been made on vessels at navy yards of late years and that better care must be maintained to cut down expenses.

Flag and commanding officers are told to have the ship's force pay more attention to small repairs.

CHURCHES HOLD CONVENTION.

KEENE, N. H.—The New England Pentecostal churches, with the Grand View Park Campmeeting Association are holding their annual midwinter convention in Keene, continuing till Feb. 6, at the local Pentecostal church on Vernon street.

EDUCATORS COMING TO BIG CONFERENCE

Boston has been chosen as the convention city of the National Educational Association for the week July 2-8, 1910. The San Francisco and California committees which tried so hard to induce the association to hold its annual convention in San Francisco have cheerfully concurred in the decision of the executive committee to make Boston the meeting place instead.

At the same time they announce their purpose of securing the convention for a still greater meeting in San Francisco in 1911. The low rate of one fare for the round trip has been granted by one railroad line, and other lines have practically given the assurance that they will make the same concession. When the association met in Boston in July, 1903, 35,000 registered members were present. An even larger attendance is looked for next July.

The Boston invitation was signed by President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University on behalf of educational and other important interests in Boston and vicinity.

THE REV. MR. ROWLEY RESIGNS.

The Rev. Frank H. Rowley read his letter of resignation to the First Baptist church in Boston, Clarendon street, at the morning service Sunday. The resignation is due to his having been elected president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

News of the Playhouses

"ROMEO AND JULIET.

Completing the opening week of the beautiful new Shubert theater and the first half of their engagement there, Miss Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern presented "Romeo and Juliet" to a large and fashionable audience Saturday evening. The cast:

Chorus	William Harris
Escalus	Eric Blind
Paris	Albert S. Howson
Montague	Malcolm Bradley
Capulet	John Taylor
Romeo	Mr. Sothern
Mercutio	Frederick Lewis
Benvolio	John Maurice Sullivan
Tybalt	Sydney Mather
Friar Laurence	William Harris
Balthasar	Frederick Roland
Sampson	France Bendtsen
Gregory	P. J. Kelly
Peter	Rowland Buckstone
Abraham	Frank Macgrath
An Apothecary	Malcolm Bradley
Lady Montague, Miss	Elizabeth Valentine
Lady Capulet	Miss Alma Kruger
Juliet	Miss Marlowe
Nurse	Mrs. Eugenia Woodward

The winsome Juliet of Miss Marlowe won the hearts of the fortunate audience even before the fickle Romeo had ceased to sigh for the obdurate Rosaline. Interest centered from the start in Miss Marlowe's charming, elusive, yet true-hearted great lady of old Verona, and her development of the part, from her initial appearance as the care-free and mischievous girl to the time when even in the face of desertion by parents and nurse, she still remained true to him she loved, was accomplished in such a simple, direct and pathetic manner that one loses sight of art in this semblance of reality.

Miss Marlowe never forgets the youthfulness of her role. The passing of the rose to Romeo during the gathering at her father's house was done so neatly that even some of the audience failed to detect it, but those who did could indulge in a reminiscent chuckle in observing the childlike satisfaction the heroine took in this unseemly circumvention of medieval proprieties.

But it was in the balcony scene that she was most pleasing. In fact, her rendering of those tender, wistfully sweet, yet naive lines caused one to wonder if they have ever been surpassed. Her reading of the potion speech is also particularly good. Here she depicts with surpassing skill the pathetic, childish fear of the unknown battling with and being overcome by her woman's love that braves all dangers for him upon whom it is lavished.

The Romeo of Mr. Southern was a finished performance, done with that careful attention to detail which distinguishes his work. It might be said, however, that his interpretation of the role was a trifle too melancholy and somewhat lacking in fire and dash. All his energy seemed to be expended in anticipating trouble, so that even in more joyous moments he seemed rather like the melancholy Dane than a fiery scion of an ancient and noble Veronese house.

He seemed to enjoy being sad. In fact, in such depths of woe did he sink in the earlier part of the performance, just subsequent to hearing of his banishment, that, when he later learns of his lady-love's suppositious taking off, one might infer from his expression that this news was to him a positive relief. The scene of the parting at dawn was played by him with splendid poignancy.

In a larger sense, however, Mr. Sothern's performance is a fine achievement. It leaves in memory a sense of tragedy that grows upon one, and the total effect is one of much power. Mr. Sothern is at his best in the speeches in which Romeo protests and struggles against his fate.

Of the other players Mr. Howson deserves great praise for his graceful work as Paris. The dignity and poise which he lends to the part, combined with a handsome presence and pleasing voice, leads to the opinion that Juliet would have been wiser in choosing him as her accepted suitor. Mr. Lewis, in the part of Mercutio, played the role with his usual insight and delicacy. His diction was particularly good and his reading of the whimsical yet brave remarks of the fatally wounded gallant was more than adequate.

A refreshing vein of quaint humor was added to the performance by Mrs. Eugenia Woodward as Juliet's aged nurse, the cheery and irresponsible old dame that skips through various scenes with the smile of irrepressible youth bulging her wrinkled cheek. Her teasing of the impatient Juliet showed that she had a heart as full of mirth and mischief as her charge. The Friar Laurence of Mr. Harris was an admirable depiction of character. The stern, repressed, ascetic, but lovable old Franciscan was given a dilineation worthy of highest praise.

Too much cannot be said about the painstaking care and lavish generosity displayed in the costumes and scenery of this production. The settings of the balcony scene were an ideal background for this lovers' idyll, giving the atmosphere and color of rich langurous southern night, and especially beautiful was the great hall in Capulet's house, with its throng of noble guests, clad in rich flowing robes of blending, harmonious color, moving through the measures of a stately dance.

FARMERS IN IOWA MEET NEXT WEEK

The next big state gathering will be that of the Iowa hardware dealers during the first week in March. A convention of over 3000 is expected. Just a week later will come a convention of the state threshermen. A crowd of between 2500 and 3000 is expected.

CORNELL EMBLEM PRIZE IS OFFERED

"The authorities of Cornell University invite competitive designs for a university emblem, and offer a prize of $200 for the most satisfactory. The competition is open to all, the first of June being named as the latest date for the submission of designs. These may be addressed to the chairman of the committee, Prof. G. L. Burr, who will be glad to answer any inquiries relative to the matter."

LAND IS OFFERED FOR EXPERIMENT

DES MOINES, Ia.—The Greater Des Moines committee will not have to pay rental upon the land which it intends to secure on the outskirts of Des Moines for experimental farming to determine how much can be produced on an acre of Iowa land.

F. F. Frost has offered without charge an acreage east of Des Moines. G. W. Griffith has offered the use of three acres of his farm 14 miles north of the city. Henry Gray offers one acre of his 70-acre farm. W. W. Lyons has informed the committee that it may use for five years five acres of his farm.

MEDAL OF HONOR SOCIETY DIVIDES

PITTSBURG—There has been a division in the Medal of Honor Legion, and a new order of medal of honor men has been established. Col. James M. Schoonmaker, vice-president of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad of this city; Gen. Horatio C. King of Brooklyn and Gen. Daniel E. Sickles of New York are among the many who have withdrawn from the old organization and cast their fortunes with the Military Order of the Medal of Honor.

The chief causes for the trouble are said to be over the eligibility for membership in the Medal of Honor Legion.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS PLAN A CONFERENCE ON FUTURE ACTIONS

Probably Will Be Held at the White House This Week to Straighten Tangled Legislative Course.

NOT YET SETTLED

WASHINGTON—A conference of Republican leaders is now being considered, and probably will be held soon after Senator Aldrich returns from Florida, which he is expected to do this week.

Whether this will be held at the White House, so as to enable Mr. Taft to participate, or at the capitol, has not been decided. It has been settled, however, that it will include the more prominent members of both branches of Congress, and that vigorous means will be advocated to restore to some semblance of order the tangled conditions now existing.

The plan most in favor is for a rearrangement of the Taft policies, placing them in order of executive preference, or in such sequence as it is thought will most benefit the majority party.

Little headway has been made in the two months Congress has been in session toward the enactment of important legislation demanded by President Taft; yet on every side are heard predictions of an early adjournment.

The question is one which congressional leaders admit is giving them deep concern. The absence of unanimity as to almost all of the President's measures is such as to make exceedingly difficult the work mapped out for those who have the bills in charge.

PEOPLE OPPOSED TO DEEPENING OF WELLAND CANAL

VICTORIA HARBOR, Ont.—A determined opposition has developed here and in the neighboring town of Midland against the proposed deepening of the Welland canal. Public meetings have been held in both towns and resolutions passed protesting against the work being undertaken. The general belief is that with the Welland deepened the Erie canal would also be deepened from Oswego to the Hudson river, thus diverting trade from Montreal. Petitions against the scheme will be presented in Parliament.

MEMBERS TO QUIT BOARD IN READING

READING, Mass.—The school board of this town will lose two valued members this year by the withdrawal of Henry C. Parker and Mrs. Charles F. Brown. Mr. Parker announces that he will not be a candidate for reelection.

Mr. Parker believes that the town has shown rare generosity in the support of the schools and an appreciation of the value of education found in few municipalities. He has served 12 years and is the senior member of the board. Mrs. Brown has been the only woman member. Mrs. J. Wesley Davies and Mrs. John V. Young and Ansel R. Richards are probable candidates.

VICTORIA, B. C.—The forestry commission in its interim report recommends that special timber licenses shall be renewable from year to year.

HEARINGS ON POSTAL INCREASES AREDUE TO END IN FEBRUARY

WASHINGTON — Members of the House committee on postoffices and post roads have determined that Feb. 8 will mark the close of hearings which they are giving upon the question of reclassifying magazines, which are now carried as second class matter at a loss to the government of more than 8 cents a pound. There will probably be no more hearings on the part of the committee for several days. A hearing has been arranged for certain publishers on Feb. 9, the final day.

It has not yet been determined whether the reclassification, which is regarded as very probable, will be reported as a part of the postoffice appropriation bill or as a separate measure. This is likely to be governed somewhat by the development of the situation in the House.

Should business move upon greased ways and the House be ready for the appropriation bill prior to the close of the hearings, it can be readily completed. Unless it is desired to report it earlier, it is likely that such amendments to the law as are decided upon will form a part of the regular appropriation bill.

OTTAWA, Ont.—The Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, minister of labor, in the course of a speech at a ward meeting in support of Mr. Allard, government candidate in the by-election, stated that investigations had been made by his department regarding the increased cost of living and the results would shortly be published. He said the development of trusts and mergers tended to enhance prices, and it was with the object of prosecuting illegal combinations that he had introduced the anti-combine bill now in Parliament.

LAWRENCE MEN ARE SUMMONED

LAWRENCE, Mass.—Many prominent men of this city are being summoned by the police authorities to appear as witnesses before the grand jury tomorrow to testify in the investigation of a charge of bribery in connection with an effort by Mayor William P. COMMERCE COURT PROPOSAL ROUSES CONGRESS DEBATE

Serious Hitch in Presidential Program Seems Likely Over Question of Its Constitutionality.

MAY DELAY ACTION

WASHINGTON—Relative to President Taft's bill seeking amendments of the interstate commerce law, many representations for and against its numerous provisions and for and against new provisions are being pressed upon the Senate and House committees, and it may not reach the House before next March.

One of the most important points of debate is the matter of the constitutionality of the provision for a commerce court. It has been much in dispute, but a recent decision by Justice White of the supreme court has emphasized the doubts.

The controversy before the Senate and House committees on that point will be carried to the floors of the respective chambers.

The Senate interstate commerce committee, which took up the bill a few days ago, will resume its sessions energetically this week. Senator Aldrich, one of its members, is expected to return from Florida to participate.

Those who allow their bills to remain unpaid after the 10-day discount period has elapsed will have to pay $1 per thousand feet. The reduction ordered is in accordance with the agreement existing between the city and the company, which provides for a reduction of rates should the company find that it can make 8 per cent profit on its business after allowing for depreciation.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Reports of differences between the majority of the alumni of Princeton University and the administration as represented by President Woodrow Wilson and that this has occurred as a result of alleged agitation for residential quadrangles as a substitute for the present social system of the students are declared by prominent officers of Princeton University to be grossly exaggerated.

The board of trustees of the university have under consideration the gift of $500,000 for a graduate college from William C. Proctor of Cincinnati, which is to be given provided another $500,000 is raised by May 1, 1910.

"IF I BE LIFTED UP"

NO good thing can be gained by force. The condition which is specified is, "If I be lifted up"; that is, if I be lifted up in consciousness to behold and to manifest the spiritual, the good and the true, so that in place of sinning mortal men and things I see God's spiritual perfect idea of man and the universe; if, instead of material conditions which seem discordant and distressing, I see the spiritual fact of God's allness—perfect unity, supreme harmony, joy, bliss; God's spiritual family, spiritual community, spiritual nation, dwelling forever in perfect unity in God who is Love—then will I "draw all men unto me"—unto the reality of good which I discern and express.

Even on the material plane we can but realize that the grandest natures are those which cannot be coerced, but which will yield, with childlike docility, to love's gentle influence. So in the spiritual realm the true, pure, uplifted life will draw all men toward the good therein expressed.

Those who are lifted somewhat above the material consciousness realize that I "will draw all men unto me" means not to personality, but to divine Principle, Love, expressed through man. If one should see a beggar in the street, sick and sinful and wretched, and he knew that this same beggar was heir to millions of dollars, would he not gladly do all in his power to make the beggar realize this fact and rise from his squalor, sin and misery, to use the possession which is his and which is simply waiting for him to claim it? Then can we, who have tasted even a little of God's graciousness, neglect any opportunity to rise into the higher consciousness which shall enable us to tell, by our lives, these others—our brothers who know not the better way—of their royal birthright of freedom, love and boundless bliss, which is only waiting for them to claim it, to take it as their own?

These same brothers may be deaf to the spoken word which would tell them of their birthright, but the silent influence, the influence which reaches all with whom it comes in contact, the influence of a life that is lifted up from the earth, from the material consciousness, which sees as a part of man the error which is expressed through mortals, instead of seeing, as God sees, the pure, true, loving child of God, and that the evil which seems to speak through human sense is but the evil suggestion which spoke to Christ through Peter, when the Master answered by saying "Get thee behind me, Satan,"—this vital influence will not fail to win. The consciousness that is lifted up, away from materiality, loves always every child of God. It refuses to see, as any part of God's children, the errors of mankind. True consciousness beholds God's image, pure and undefiled, and this spiritual seeing calls it forth to manifestation.

The experience of sweetest peace, unsullied joy, boundless bliss, which come even from striving to be thus "lifted up" for the sake of drawing others to their own, is unspeakable and full of glory; and though one may attain the greatest heights in a worldly way, though every human ambition may be gratified to the limit, yet if he has not this "lifted up," this awakened consciousness, all of these experiences will simply fail to satisfy, they will be to him as if he had tasted the sweetest morsel, to find it turned to dust and ashes in his mouth. Harmony is a quality of Soul; and when man realizes this by being lifted up above the plane of material sense, he has found the kingdom of heaven (harmony) within him.

A Familiar Question

ACCORDING to the old story the Englishman and the American were disputing over the pronunciation of the word neither. The former said "nyether," the latter "neether," when an Irishman joined them and affirmed "Sure it's nayther." The lexicographers all discuss this word. The Century dictionary liberally allows that all three pronunciations have historical reasonableness. The new International (Webster revised 1910) says that all leading authorities pronounce "neether" the best use. Richard Grant White declares that there is no authority either by analogy nor of the best speakers for the "i" sound in the word. George Ade, speaking of his fellow countrymen, names "those superior persons who always say eyether and nyether." Apparently "neether" has most acceptance and is most reasonable since this is the usual sound given to ei; but of the other two the pronunciation "nayther" seems to hold the palm over "nyether," since the dictionaries refer the word back to long a, meaning "always," which appears in our word aye (pronounced long a, as in day.) Our aye meaning yes and pronounced like long i is labeled "origin uncertain." Singers usually sing the word neither with the long i sound, since this is an easier vowel for most voices than e or long a.

One is safe to say "neether," and open to some criticism for affectation if one chooses the other sound. There is good reason for keeping the ordinary pronunciation in America. In England the i sound is common in London and the south of the country, says the Century.

But the great new Oxford dictionary, still in the making by wise Englishmen, says this is "not in accordance with the analogies of standard English, though prevalent in London." Worcester and other English authorities also prefer "neether."

Unpronounceable

El Paso Times: There is something in a name. Take that of the village in Wales: Llanfairpwilgwynglegogerych wyrndrobwllandsiliogogagoch. There is something in that name if it is only consonants. By the time the porter gets through calling it you are at the next station. So it does not much matter.

Is that the town the "Welsh menace," David Lloyd-George, is from? If so it explains, possibly, the dislike and fear with which he is regarded by the gentlemen of the British peerage, who resent his plans for putting taxes on lands which might just as easily be laid on bread and butter. But a town with the unpronounceable name you mention would hardly be suspected of having produced a stateman with such "pronounced" opinions as those of Lloyd-George.—Dallas News.

His Match

In a Pennsylvania town, where the Friends abound, a Quaker spinster recently attended the marriage of her grand-nephew, a young person who had in the course of his 21 years received much discipline at her hands.

The lady was at her best on this festive occasion, and, at a pause in the wedding breakfast, the happy bridegroom looked over at her with a beguiling smile.

"Tell us why thee never married, Aunt Patience," he said, teasingly.

"That is soon told, William," said the Quakeress, calmly. "It was because I was not so easily pleased as thy wife was."—Circle.

Many Varieties of Cornflower

Germany adopted the cornflower as a national emblem many years ago, the adoption coming about merely by way of a popular choice. It is a common flower all over Europe, but rather more prolific in Germany than in any other of the countries graced by it.

Botanists tell us that there are no less than 350 varieties of the cornflower to be found, but the plant that is found in profusion in the realms of the Kaiser is said to be the most beautiful of all. The Germans admire it for the richness of its wreath-like circle of outer florets and the splendors of its deep azure tints as it opens to the sun.

Although Germany lays claim to the finest of the species, America may boast also of some beautiful specimens of the cornflower. It is said to have been brought to this country first in the ballast of ships in the days antedating the modern ocean flyer, which carries only water ballast. In this country it is variously known as the bachelor's button, corn bottle, witches' bells or thimbles, blue bonnet and blue poppy.—Champaign (Ill.) Gazette.

Poe and Holmes in Court

With Edgar Allan Poe arguing a case before Oliver Wendell Holmes the clock in the United States supreme court room seemed to have turned back several decades today.

But it was so. Oliver Wendell Holmes was on the bench, Edgar Allan Poe was at the bar. Counselor Poe is a member of the famous Poe family of Baltimore. Justice Holmes' pedigree also is well known.—Washington Star.

IN NEW ZEALAND

PAEROA, NORTH ISLAND.
Junction of Ohinemuri and Waihou rivers showing steamer discharging cargo for goldfields.

THE history of New Zealand is in certain points especially interesting. Unlike most of the British colonies it did not expand from a central settlement, but was settled at six different points, namely at Auckland, Wellington, Nelson, New Plymouth and Canterbury. These were afterward united into one colonial government. The scattering of the population was due largely to the physical conformations of the island, the mountainous character and the deep forests. The active work of the early colonial government was to establish roads, railroads, etc., and intercommunications through the country.

The House of Representatives of 95 members must always include four Maoris, elected by their own people. The forests of these islands are remarkable and the scenery most picturesque. The rivers are mostly short and rapid. The Waikato, the chief river of the northern island is 200 miles long and navigable in part. The kauri is one of the most useful trees, used for its strong wood and the gum. It grows 120 or 160 feet high.

Higher Education for German Women

Higher education for woman is a burning question throughout the German empire. Helena Lange, president of the German Womans League, is credited with having accomplished better results than other of the leaders. Nineteen years ago she began her campaign for better education for women and a greater control in educational matters. To Americans her claims will seem modest, for in America girls' schools are not by any means all in the hands of men for principals and for teachers of all the higher grades. She asked in a pamphlet, published in 1887, that women should be given academic training in order that they might be fitted to teach in the higher schools for girls.

German School Children

It may be safely stated that all German children go to day schools. There are, of course, abundance of boarding schools, but it is said that American children mostly attend. There is no more gratifying sight in Berlin than to watch the troops of children going to school. They march along sedately and without a maid at their heels, as one sees in Paris. They learn self-reliance early in life and may be safely trusted on the streets. In long tin satchels their books and luncheons are stowed, and they are all garbed so nearly alike that they appear to be in uniform. The boys invariably wear peaked caps and the girls neat stuff dresses and snowy aprons with worsted caps crowned with a pompon. Except at the kindergarten, boys and girls are eduated separately and on a different plan.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mine Host of the Golden Apple

A goodly host one day was mine,
A golden apple his only sign,
That hung from a long branch, ripe and fine.

My host was the beautiful apple tree;
He gave me shelter and nourished me
With the best of fare, all fresh and free.

And light winged guests came, not a few,
To his leafy inn, and sipped the dew
And sang their best songs ere they flew.

I slept at night on a downy bed
Of moss, and my host benignly spread
His own cool shadow over my head.

When I asked what reckoning there might be,
He shook his broad boughs cheerily—
A blessing be thine, green apple tree!
—Thomas Westwood.

The British School of Archeology Lectures in Rome

A SERIES of lectures are being given in Rome under the auspices of the British Archeological School in that city. The first lecture was delivered by Mrs. Arthur Strong, who was introduced by Sir Rennell Rodd, the British ambassador in Rome. The following summary of the lecture, which was entitled "The Influence of the Imperial Idea on Later Antique Art," is published in the London Times:

"Mrs. Strong said that the importance of art produced under the Roman rule had been universally admitted since the researches of Wickoff and Riegi. But it was a deplorable fact that the old prejudice against Roman art, simply because it was not Greek, had only disappeared to give way to a new superstition in favor of its being altogether the product of oriental influences. Strzygowski, Cumont and other scholars now insisted that the new forms and artistic aspirations—which correspond to the new intellectual and spiritual needs of the later empire and nascent Christianity—must be traced back to the Graeco-oriental cities of Asia Minor, Egypt, or Syria. As an artistic factor they left Rome entirely out of the question.

"The lecturer proposed to combat the extravagant pretensions of what has been nicknamed the los von Rom school of archeology, and for this purpose set to work to disengage the peculiar artistic contribution of Rome from the tangle of influences that go to the making of the later antique. Mrs. Strong recognized the Roman contribution more especially in the methods of centralized grouping which distinguished Roman from Greek composition. The difference of method she attributed to the influence of the figure of the Emperor to which it was necessary to give prominence. The imperial figure, by gradually claiming for itself the chief place in decoration, imposed a principle of centralized design unknown in preceding periods. The prestige bestowed by Rome upon the central figure of the Emperor brought about that a scheme of grouping which at first was merely gratifying to the eye became imbued with meaning and emotion and took irrevocable hold as one best suited to express the imperial power that had unified the whole civilized world and given it centuries of peace and prosperity.

"By the help of photographic lantern slides the lecturer showed the evolution of grouping, from the long, loosely composed friezes of Greek art to such serrated compositions as those which record on the arch of Constantine the benefactions of Diocletian. Here the Emperor dominated the scene, attracting all the interest to himself in a manner which suggested the later groups of Christ surrounded by the Apostles, or other sacred personages, in the early Christian sarcophagi and ivories."

Mrs. Strong will give a series of eight informal demonstrations, in addition to the lecture referred to above, on the museums and monuments of Rome. The other lectures of the regular course will be delivered, two by the director of the school and one by the British ambassador, Sir Rennell Rodd.

Great Dam in the Shoshone Canyon

The maze of mechanical appliances required in the construction of the great Shoshone river dam in the canyon eight miles southwest of Cody, Wyo., is shown in a page illustration in the February Popular Mechanics. There is a footbridge 300 feet above the river, and the mountains continue skyward in an almost vertical line for 1000 feet. The dam will reach a height of 250 feet above the river level, and extends to a depth of 80 feet below the river bed to solid foundation.

Time in Chile

Chile's adoption of eastern standard time, in the same time belt as New York and New England, is a reminder of a geographical fact which is sometimes forgotten: that South American lies chiefly to the east as well as south of our own continent. Chile is on the western edge of the austral continent, yet its longitude is that of New England, Santiago corresponding with Hartford. Argentina is due south from Nova Scotia; the extreme westernmost point of the South American continent is no further west than Cleveland, while its easternmost point is much nearer the longitude of London than that of New York.—New York Republican.

French Girl Students in England

Half a dozen girls from the secondary schools of Paris have been sent to England at the expense of the French nation for a two years' course of study. All fees and expenses are paid and each girl receives an allowance of five francs a month. The first year is to be passed in scholastic studies and the second in obtaining a business training in a commercial house.—Exchange.

The Reason

A belated pun, with Andrew Carnegie as the victim, is being circulated at Washington. The ironmaster was on board a ferryboat at Norfolk on the day the President visited that port. Something went wrong with the compass. The captain appealed to the mate. The mate examined the compass and said: "I guess it must be attracted by that steel magnate over there."—Troy Times.

Grass for the Menu

Nebuchadnezzar's fate was not so sorry after all, as the following statements from Harpers Weekly show:

In view of the present prices of food products and the outlook for the future, it may be some comfort to the American citizen to know that several of the most common weeds are good for table use. Wild chicory is bitterly hated by the farmer, but it will make a delightful salad, tender and wholesome. The virtues of the dandelion in this respect are now well-known. Wild mustard or charlock, another bane of the farmer, gives a delicious flavor to soup, as will pokeweed, which in France is cultivated as a vegetable, taking the place of bay leaves, sage, thyme and the like. Dock weeds are astonishingly hard to discourage, so in Europe they use both the broad-leafed and curly-leafed varieties as table vegetables. Nettles are much used in Scotland, Poland and Germany as greens when young and tender. Purslain is boiled with other vegetables to give the dish a piquant flavor. Sorrel is looked upon as a great pest by most farmers, but choice leaves picked from sorrel "weeds" make a splendid salad for a game dinner. The young leaves of milkweed seem to cross between spinach and asparagus, and in a salad are delicious.

Egyptian Correspondents

Letters are frequently received at the American consulate-general in Cairo from school teachers and pupils in the United States desiring to open correspondence with pupils in schools in Egypt. At first these letters were handed to the directors of the American mission schools and some correspondence ensued between American and Egyptian children. It is now the opinion of the mission school directors that such correspondence is unwise and it will no longer be permitted to pupils in the schools in Cairo.—Daily Consular and Trade Reports.

What There's Time For

Lots of time for lots of things,
Though it's said that time has wings;
There is always time to find
Ways of being sweet and kind;
There is always time to share
Smiles and goodness everywhere;
Time to send the frowns away,
Time a gentle word to say;
Time for helpfulness, and time
To assist the weak to climb;
Time to gather a little flower,
Time for friendship any hour;
But there is no time to spare
For unkindness anywhere.
—Our Young Folks.

Traveling Libraries in Canada

Since the year 1900, traveling libraries, in other words boxes containing from 25 to 40 books, have been issued to all the provinces of Canada by the McGill University library. Many thousands of volumes have been circulated in this way, and many have been the expressions of appreciation received from those who have used the books.

One effect of these libraries has been to stimulate systematic reading. In connection with them, clubs have been formed for the study of Canadian history, of English history, of Dutch painting, of English literature, of Italian painting, of British pottery and many other subjects.

In the hope of aiding still further those who desire to profit by a course of reading, the Local Council of Women of Montreal and the library of McGill University have for some time been considering the desirability of establishing in the province of Quebec a reading union, which should resemble in many respects the National Home Reading Union in England, but for which the books would continue to be supplied by the traveling libraries of McGill University.—Montreal Star.

Changed Conditions in Georgia

We announced in last week's issue that our county jail was entirely empty, a coincidence so remarkable that we thought it well worthy of publication. There has been no change at the jail up to this issue, and if you were to go through its corridors and cells you would find it a lonesome place.

We do not recall when our jail was entirely empty before. We recall that only a few years ago our jail had to be enlarged by putting in additional cells and that these cells would be literally packed full when superior court met.—Tattnall Journal.

Is the President a "Boss"?

MANY of the dailies and some of the weeklies are commenting on the growing Rooseveltian tendencies of President Taft in his attitude toward the legislative branch of the government. Strange to say, while the discussion has called forth notes of warning from strict constitutionalists, and occasional sharp criticism, the general impression seems to be that while it is as wrong for Mr. Taft as it was for Mr. Roosevelt to interfere with or attempt to usurp the prerogatives of Congress, the former has, in a large measure, been forced to go outside his province in this particular.

It is recalled, in his behalf, that he was manifestly indisposed at the beginning to meddle in affairs at the other end of the avenue, and that it required a great deal of persuasion, and pressure from the outside as well as from the inside, to induce him to interfere in the tariff discussion. But pressure was used, and very effectively. It was shown to him that he had been committed by his party to a scaling down of certain of the tariff schedules, and that on the strength of his party's platform pledges he had given his personal promise to the country that these reforms would be carried out. He decided to take a hand in the fight, and we know the rest. We remember that he began with a plea and ended with a demand, and that while he did not accomplish all he sought, he scored a practical victory over the party leaders.

The theory is now advanced on one side that this success created in Mr. Taft an appetite for dictatorial power, but this is overborne by the well-supported statement on the other side that Mr. Taft has not interfered in the affairs of Congress in a single instance where he has not been invited, or urged, or actually forced, to do so by the "regulars" or the "insurgents" or by both; and that sometimes one of these elements, sometimes the other, and sometimes the two combined, have so shaped the circumstances and formed the conditions that he could not avoid stepping into the arena and "bossing" the situation.

There appears to be an openly declared or tacitly conceded admission in all quarters at present that Mr. Taft has taken the reins of his own party in Congress. As this means the majority, and as the majority controls, the inference is that the legislative branch of the government will do business in a manner acceptable to the executive branch.

SECRETARY BALLINGER'S statement that Alaska is a prize package the full value of which no one yet knows should tend to make "Uncle Sam" keep a good firm hold on most of it until he has had time to poke about in its soils and find out what is hidden therein.

The Joy of Giving

A CHICAGO millionaire has learned the secret of how to be happy though rich. He says, "I have discovered that giving is the most exquisite of mundane delights." Now that he has solved the problem of extracting joy from gold, he proposes to give away all that he has. He will find no lack of those willing to be recipients, but whether he will discover those who are worthy of assistance or those to whom his gifts would be a benefit is another question. This Chicago dispenser of wealth is, however, no careless giver. He is partial to educational institutions. Thus far forty-seven in twenty-four states have shared in his bounty. He is determined to do all he can to give young men and young women a better start in life than they would otherwise have. A pleasant feature of his benefactions is that they are not tied up by conditions and restrictions—he gives freely and gladly, and we are told in the Scriptures that "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

Now, in what does the joy of giving consist? What the Chicago man has learned is no new discovery, but it is something that a great many do not realize. The satisfaction that results from giving is due to working for the welfare and pleasure of others. This is the real secret of success in the pursuit of happiness, and in the gaining of happiness whether pursuing it or not. It is only by the practise of this virtue that one comes to a full consciousness of the delight it can afford. One does not need to be rich to experience it—the small gift, the personal effort in behalf of another, each brings its reward. Many of these in succession make a life that blesses and is blessed.

SINCE women's hats have increased so enormously in size but not an ounce in weight, the express companies that carry them by the pound are beginning to complain. Said an officer of one of the companies: "Five years ago you could get from 500 to 3000 women's hats into an ordinary express car. Now you have to take out the double doors to get one in." And therein a tip for husbands, too. Why not save money by buying these hats by the pound?

New York Fair and Boston

BOSTON will aid the fair and the fair will aid Boston. We refer now to the great world's show which New York is planning for 1913. It is nearly half a dozen decades since New York had a world's fair, and she will probably seek to make up for lost time and opportunities by the extent and grandeur of the coming event. The preliminary announcement includes some twenty "palaces of exhibition." There will be endless other smaller buildings. New York hopes that her show will surpass all others held in this country in even greater proportion than she exceeds in size the cities that have held fairs. In figuring on the attendance it is shown that the number of visitors heretofore has been from ten to thirty times the population of the municipalities where the exhibitions have been given. What, then, will be the vast throng to witness the spectacle in New York, whose population in 1913 is expected to reach 5,000,000?

New England will gladly avail itself of the opportunity to be represented at the New York show. And Boston is sure to place on its exhibits the invitation to "Come over and see us!" Untold numbers will accept the invitation and many will come who had planned to do so before the hospitable appeal met their eyes. All will be welcome. Indeed, it may be better than having a fair of our own, for we shall get the people without the immense expense of the undertaking. That is not, as it might appear on the first glance, a selfish attitude, but is merely being alive to the advantage it may be to us to open our doors to those who are calling on our enterprising neighbor. They will want to come to see the hills and shores of New England, its historic and literary shrines and the attractions of its capital.

This prospect of an influx of visitors must act as a spur to Boston to hasten onward with its betterment ideas, that it may present a good front in the year of the fair. With true Yankee shrewdness, we shall make a bid for trade. What part of the world's patronage we shall obtain will depend on the alertness and acumen of our business men. They have three years for preparation. Every day in this period should be made to count toward the desired result.

WHATEVER else may be said of it later, no one can doubt that the airship and flying machine show to be held in Boston the third week in February will be a high-class exhibition.

The Passing of the Frontier

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that the United States Senate has passed a bill providing for the disposition by lottery of unallotted Indian lands in South Dakota, and the information that an Indian newspaper is about to be issued at Muskogee, Oklahoma, serve to call attention to the changes that are constantly taking place along the border line of civilization. What was once the clearly-defined "frontier" is now scarcely traceable. For many years it has been pushed on and on toward the Pacific as "Westward the course of empire takes its way." And from the Pacific eastward has come the march of civilization, meeting and mingling with that which has progressed from the Atlantic to, and far beyond, "the Father of Waters." Where, for a thousand summers, the prairie rose had gladdened the hermit bee, came the breaking plow turning once and for all time, in long green ribbons of close-knit sod, the elemental carpet of the plains.

"Before me curls the wavering smoke
Of the Indian's smouldering fire.
Behind me rise,—was it God who spoke?—
At the toil-enchanted hammer's stroke,
The town and the glittering spire."

Every canvas-covered "prairie schooner," freighted with hopeful men and trusting women and children, and including in its cargo sickle and seeds and the cherished household treasures, no matter how homely and meager, found anchorage somewhere in the broad prairies amid their seas of waving grass. There was set up a new family shrine and altar that added fresh territory to the diligent world of busy men and by so much lessened the Indian's domain.

There is no longer a frontier to mark as an encroaching barrier the red man's freedom. The waves of civilization have encompassed him and against every impulse of his wild nature—his legacy from centuries of untrammeled life—he finds himself stranded amid the arts and occupations of his white brothers. How far, with the passing of the frontier, the Indian himself has gone on from that which he was to that which he is and is to be is indicated in the prospectus of this newspaper about to be issued. It is to be edited by an Indian and every department will be printed in some Indian language. The Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw, Seminole and Chickasaw tongues will be represented. That portion of the paper intended for the Cherokees will be printed in Cherokee characters. This tribe is said to be the only one whose language has been developed to a point where its own characters can be used. The news of the other tribes will be printed in their various languages, but in the English alphabet.

Can an old-time admirer of Cooper's Indian stories recognize in the present-day, newspaper-publishing red men the immediate descendants of those who perform such thrilling deeds in the pages of the "Leather Stocking Tales"? Perhaps, some day the world will cease to quote Pope's line "Lo, the poor Indian!" For as agriculture and industry have gradually encompassed the Indian ranges, the savage has been brought closer and closer to the educational riches of civilization.

Chinese Administrative Reform

ADVICES from Shanghai extol the efficiency shown by the members of the provincial assembly of Kiang-Su during the first session just ended. The hope is expressed that this somewhat unexpected success will furnish the key to the solution of the administrative reform problem. If the reforms could be introduced from the provincial assemblies upward rather than from the central government in Peking downward, no better foundation, nor a wider one, could be laid for the regeneration of China. Such a possibility is particularly interesting at the present time, when foreign ascendency in Chinese affairs is judged sufficiently serious—in consequence of various recent treaties in the far east—to have caused the launching of a proposal intended to force the restoration of Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria by international guarantee.

With fair prospects of internal consolidation, however slow, no present encroachment on Chinese territorial or commercial interests could be regarded as too serious for an awakened China to repel. The danger is rather that once the giant is roused and has tried his strength in repelling aggressions he may develop a Mongolian imperialism to which Japanese expansion could not be compared except as a diminutive sample. Happily, China already possesses a vast empire in her sparsely-peopled dependencies to the west and north, Thibet, Eastern Turkestan, Mongolia and Manchuria, all of which afford ample scope for imperialism for generations to come. It is one of the wonders of modern Asia to watch the growth of the Chinese colonial movement by which the overcrowded provinces of China proper send pioneers to the confines of the Russian empire. It is in these dependencies that the north and the south of China meet and blend; and it is there, evidently, that self-government will find the most congenial soil to take root in.

If western civilization ever had a mission in Mongolian lands, it is to transmit all its constructive elements to this new China and to withhold from it the destructive factors that are exercising such an adverse influence on the affairs of the coast country. If there is a Chinese equivalent for western democracy, its nucleus must be sought in the heart of Asia, among the immigrants and frontiersmen of colonial China.

THE Vermont Hotel Mens Association at their forthcoming banquet at Montpelier will have a vegetable dinner. But they will, of course, speak of the occasion as their annual meet.

Secretary Meyer's Plan Opposed

IT IS reported that the House naval committee is awaiting a reply by the secretary of the navy to the arguments brought forward by Paymaster-General Rogers and Chief Constructor Capps against his reorganization plan, and that if this answer is not satisfactory the entire scheme may go to pieces. A great deal is being said on the assumption that the secretary will find it difficult or impossible to furnish the committee with the reply that it deems necessary, and hasty conclusions thus formed are doing Mr. Meyer an injustice. Fair play demands that he be given time to make answer to the critics of his plan.

It may be remembered that one of the most important features of this plan is that which contemplates that a great engineering department shall be created in the navy yards, of which line officers shall take charge. The secretary's idea is that the men educated by the government to command its warships are best qualified to look after their building, equipment and repair. Chief Constructor Capps had already declared the plan unworkable, holding that its shortcomings would make themselves particularly apparent in time of war when officers trained for fighting would have to be kept in the machine shops, when Paymaster-General Rogers attacked the Meyer plan in a still more determined and sweeping fashion. Crystallized, the objections raised by these two coadjutors of the secretary of the navy are to be found in the question: "What will happen to the navy yard organization when a war comes and the line officers who have been running things are rushed to sea?"

That they must be rushed to sea in such an event is a proposition which Paymaster-General Rogers and Chief Constructor Capps insist admits of no possible dispute. The secretary, as has been said, has not made answer but his friends believe he is not the man to be caught without a sufficient reply. No doubt, he will give the committee the information it is seeking in due time. Meanwhile, it is unfortunate, to say the least, that opposition should have arisen to him among those who should be his advisers and helpers.

FINDING her Legislature is much too large, New Hampshire is confronted with the task of reducing the number of representatives from something over 400 to about 180. The work of elimination ought not to be very difficult for no doubt nearly every member can supply the names of several others who could be spared as well as not.

The Anti-Meat Crusade

OUT in the West where meat is on the hoof—at what might be called the base of our food supply—the present anti-meat crusade is regarded from a viewpoint very different from that of other parts of the country where meat is on the hook or on the block. This statement has reference to the West beyond Chicago, beyond Kansas City, St. Joseph and Omaha—beyond the packing belt. It relates to the country where the cattle are bred and fed and raised for the markets of the world. Out there the position is taken that in order to reduce the price of meat all of those things that enter as necessities into the production of meat will have to be cheapened. Lands will have to come down, taxes must be reduced. Labor will have to be cut. Transportation charges will have to be slashed.

The rise of prices in meats does not have its beginning in the stockyards, nor will a reduction in the prices end there. Grazing, corn, oats, hay, like all the other products of the farm, have advanced. The days of cheap feed for livestock are gone by. Everything about the range, the ranch and the farm has been affected by the uplift in the American standard of living, just as everything about the village, town and populous city is affected. The highest prices ever recorded have been paid for livestock in Kansas City and Chicago recently. Never before have steers and hogs commanded such figures. Yet, the stockmen say they have not made any more profit from these sales than they have made from sales in the past at lower prices. The farmers of the West are joining the ranchmen and herders in protests against the meat boycott. It will do them great harm, they say, without doing others any good, for it must result inevitably in a short supply and higher prices than ever.

The situation is full of paradoxes, contradictions, difficulties. It is too deep to be contemplated, much less corrected, in a period of popular excitement. The price of meat is only one phase of the greatest problem in economics the age has been called upon to solve.

EVEN if the uncooked food remedy for the high price of living is not all its advocates claim for it, it at least serves to eliminate the high priced cook.

Development vs. Conservation

IT HAS been wisely said that he who will not look at both sides of a question is not qualified to estimate either side intelligently or justly. This applies to conservation as to everything else. The other side of the conservation question is development. Recognition of the fact that to arrest development would mean stagnation should not prevent the carrying out of every legitimate conservation scheme. It would, however, help to define what is legitimate and what is illegitimate; what, in a public sense, is beneficial and what is harmful in the conservation policy.

The lands, the mines, the natural resources of the country, undeveloped, are of little value to the country; they take on a value the moment their development becomes prospective; they may become, and they generally do become, immensely valuable as soon as development begins. The West would not be what it is today if burdensome restrictions were laid upon its settlers, if its natural resources were withheld from energy, industry and enterprise. Nothing has been lost by the throwing open of the West to the people who in return for the privileges granted them have developed an empire.

An extensive territory lying within the United States is still to be developed. Washington and Oregon are looking anxiously for settlers, and wish to offer the same inducements to immigrants that other parts of the country have held out. They ask that government lands be placed on the market. There is no demand out there that lands, or forests, or mines, or waterpower be sold for less than they are worth, but there is a demand that they shall not, for the sake of "conserving" them, be kept idle. The new Northwest is crying for a conservation policy that shall be more liberal.
